Queer Gen. Smuts.
Some Good, Some Bad.
What We Think, We Are.
Sky Travel Grows.

BY ARTHUR BRISBANE

GEN. JAN CHRISTIAN SMUTS of the South African republic, a British dominion, appreciates the suggestion that South Africa may stop paying interest on her debt to Britain, for one year, under the moratorium, but says "No."

"We are able to pay our debts, and therefore, we shall do so," says Gen. Smuts. South Africa, however, does not propose to "climb down" on its debt.

Very eccentric person, Gen. Smuts. Uncle Sam can name for him great nations able to pay, but willing to "climb down," with a swiftness strictly in accordance with Newton's law.

THE NEWS of each day is like an old-fashioned layer cake, or a dish of Neapolitan ice cream, one layer better than the other.

Immigration to this country is the lowest in 66 years, which means that ambitious men and women, with courage and new ideas, the sort that made this country, are shut out. That is bad news.

• • •

THE AMERICAN Library Association, in conference at New Haven, completed with ease a one million-dollar endowment fund and will get another million from a foundation, not named. The money will be used, largely, for "adult education," which is important and neglected. Millions of men and women past 30, and past 50, long for education, and would make good use of it. That is good news.

WASHINGTON believes that President Hoover plans to help, financially, our neighbors in South America. Conditions there are bad, because of the drop in commodity prices. Argentine suffers from the low price of wheat. Chile is hurt by the drop in metals, and Brazil by demoralization of the coffee market.

The coffee that we once bought from Brazil for 200 million dollars we now buy for 45 millions, same amount, same quality.

American business, which has greatly increased in South America, steadily turning toward us, and away from Europe, will be glad to know that South America will have help.

SOME MODERN teachers, healers orientalists, etc., tell you man is nothing but his own thought, what you think you are. It does not work out 100 per cent, unfortunately. You cannot think yourself out of a cold in the head, or into a job.

But, a general mental condition is important. For instance, Germany had been pouring gold into the United States. We were getting so much of it that our treasury was worried, and Germany was being rapidly depleted.

There is talk and thought about a moratorium, one year's suspension of war debt payments, all around. The outlook of business and the world becomes more cheerful. German exchange rises, and, following the President's announcement, the Germans find it unnecessary to forward a large gold shipment already loaded on the Bremen. It is taken off the ship and back to the Reichsbank.

IT REALLY is a flying age. Lindbergh is preparing to fly the Pacific with his wife.

Post and Gatty, having flown in record time from America to Berlin and Moscow, are on their way from Moscow, across Siberia, next important stop Irkutsk, 2,600 miles from Moscow.

The two plucky Danes that flew the Atlantic "just for the fun of it" one a middle-aged man, landed safely at Bremen and then flew on yesterday to Denmark, where Copenhagen sat up all night to welcome them.

POST, GATTY FLYING AHEAD OF SCHEDULE

Well Past Half-Way Point in Aerial Dash Around World.

ON 850-MILE HOP TODAY

Route Carries Them Over Siberian Area, One of World's Wildest Sections.

By The Associated Press

IRKUTSK, Siberia, June 27 — Far ahead of their pell-mell schedule and well past the half-way point in their 15,000 mile dash around the world, Wiley Post and Harold Gatty sped their monoplane, Winnie Mae, out of Irkutsk today for an 850-mile hop to Blagoveshchensk, Siberia.

They arrived at Blagoveshchensk, at 8 p. m. tonight (6 a. m. Marion time).

The fliers landed in a mud hole but were not harmed. They plan to leave for Khabarovsk, eastern Siberia, at 3 a. m. tomorrow morning (1 p. m. Saturday, Marion time).

They landed here at 11:55 a. m. today (11:55 p. m. Friday Marion time) from Novo Sibirsk, completing the 1,050 miles in six hours and ten minutes, and hopped off again at 2:10 p. m. (2:10 a. m. Marion time), taking only a little more than two hours to prepare for a dash over some of the wildest country on the globe.

Decide on Shorter Stop

Originally they had planned to go on to Khabarovsk, 1,100 miles east of here, without a stop, but decided to make the shorter flight in order to pick up weather reports. They expected to reach Blagoveshchensk at 8 tonight and rest there until dawn tomorrow, then proceeding to Khabarovsk.

If weather conditions are favorable they expect to attempt a non-stop flight from Khabarovsk straight across the remaining stretch of Siberia, the gulf of Tartary, the sea of Okhotsk, the Kamchatka peninsula and the Bering sea to Nome, Alaska, a distance of 1200 miles.

Post and Gatty said they had had but eight hours sleep since starting their world flight in New York. They insisted they were feeling fine, however.

Over Wild Country

Some of the wildest country in the world lay beneath the racing plane.

This course took them across the frontier of Manchuria and through the forbidding northern section of that state again into southern Siberia and probably is the most desolate section of their journey. There are no landing fields and little enough level territory to provide even emergency stopping places. The towns are settlements of a dozen to a few hundred persons each and to the inhabitants the airplane is unknown.

Post and Gatty remained a little longer here than they had planned. They had a brief rest and inspected their plane as it was being refueled. They said they expected the ship to carry them back to New York "without a quiver."

They were about 28 hours ahead of schedule when they left here and predicted they would shatter all existing round-the-world records.

Post and Gatty originally set ten days as their time to go around the world. They had covered 8,050 miles of their 15,000-mile schedule in three days and 19 hours when they landed here.

PLAN DEPORTATIONS IN OHIO COAL STRIKE

Authorities Hit at Aliens Taking Part in Disturbances in Steubenville District.

By The Associated Press

STEUBENVILLE, O., June 27—Deportation proceedings against aliens are planned by authorities today.

While several disturbances occurred in Jefferson county yesterday, other regions in this coal area remained quiet.

From Athens, in the Sunday Creek and Hocking fields came the report that a committee had been selected by the United Mine Workers to meet with employers on a basic wage scale.

At Steubenville authorities released seven men who had been arrested in connection with stone throwing at the Dillonvale mine of the Hanna Coal Co., while the National Miners Union, which is attempting to organize the eastern Ohio field, withdrew its pickets from Dillonvale to concentrate them around the Bainbridge mine at Mount Pleasant and the Sommers mine at Adena.

Two arrests were made, one at Dillonvale, where Tony Dudlay, 32, was charged with making abusive remarks to working miners, and the other at Mount Pleasant where Homer Calhoun, 20, was cut about the head. He charged Frank Komark, 36, had threatened to stab him.

FILM STARS WED

HOLLYWOOD, Calif., June 27—William Powell, screen star, and his bride, Carole Lombard, movie actress, were to sail for Honolulu today on their honeymoon. They were married at a quiet ceremony last night at the home of the bride's parents with Rev. W. L. Barth officiating.

QUITS ARENA

After achieving world fame because of her peculiarity—although a bull fighter she steadfastly refused to kill the bulls she fought—Senorita Mya Holiarez, famous woman matador of Lima, Peru, has given up her profession to enter a convent. Her income has run into thousands of dollars and she has won the plaudits of all South America, but the arena of blood and sand will know her no more. She has taken the veil at the Convent of San Domingo, near Lima.

RED MEETING STARTS RIOT

Several Injured in Street Fighting at Communist Assembly at Barberton.

TEAR GAS BOMBS USED

Meeting Called in Protest Against Alleged Abduction of Organizer.

By The Associated Press

AKRON, O., June 27—Several men, women and children today nursed bruised heads and bodies or irritated eyes, noses and throats as the aftermath of street fighting and tear gas bombing in Barberton last night, which was precipitated by a Communist meeting.

Shortly after the start of the meeting, which was called in protest against the alleged abduction by Barberton policemen of C. Lopis Alexander, Negro Communist organizer, an estimated 3,000 persons were embroiled in the clash.

It was not long until clubs and fists were flying and a barrage of tear gas was laid down.

Newspapermen Injured

Frank Dempshaw, 35, a staff photographer for the Akron Beacon Journal and his assistant, Edwin Kane, a reporter, was bruised on the head. An unidentified man suffered a burn on his leg from the gas. Two men were arrested.

No sooner had Miss Jennie Cooper of Cleveland, a Communist organizer, started to explain that the meeting was to be peaceable "for a redress of grievances," than she and her listeners began choking from tear gas. Witnesses said they saw men in uniform hurl the bombs.

In the midst of the gas attack, men with clubs descended upon the meeting and free-for-all fighting began.

Women and children fled. Men Communists rallied around Miss Cooper as she urged them to stand fast.

Flee, Then Reassemble

They fled, however, when they could tolerate the gas no longer. As they reassembled they were pursued by about 1,000 people. More bombs were thrown.

Police grabbed two Communist leaders, and as they took them to headquarters, the crowd followed.

The Communists had scheduled a meeting several days ago and had asked a permit. Mayor S. A. Decker told them that there was no need for a permit and that police would not interfere if the meeting were orderly.

Reports were current, but not verified, that deputized Barberton policemen had wielded the clubs. Newspapermen "covering" the fight said that Barberton policemen had hurled the bombs.

Fifty-Nine Men Indicted in Offensive on Group Allied with Capone.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, June 27—With the scalp of Alphonse Capone dangling on his belt, the government has opened its offensive to wipe out another liquor syndicate reputedly allied with the "Scarface Al" interests.

Fifty-nine men and two firms were indicted by a federal grand jury yesterday for violating the liquor laws in operating a syndicate, with headquarters at Aurora, Ill., that operated in Illinois and Iowa.

More than 2,000,000 gallons of alcohol were produced and distributed by the syndicate since 1927, government officials charge. The federal operatives said the syndicate was allied with Capone and that many of those indicted were one-time alcohol-cookers in "Scarface Al's" mob.

Temperatures Soar Again After Storm Brings Temporary Relief.

59 DEAD IN COUNTRY

West Still Sweltering as Thermometer Stays Around 100-Degree Mark.

Burning heat was back in power today after the outskirts of a severe storm dropped local temperatures 23 degrees in 90 minutes yesterday afternoon, bringing this city only temporary relief. At noon today the temperature was 87 in Marion.

Meantime the heat continued to rage over the entire country. Fifty-nine lives have burned out since summer went on its first rampage Thursday and singed a path of destruction across the country, according to the Associated Press. From the Ohio river valley to southern California, temperatures sizzled at 100 degrees and above. No relief was in sight for the week-end. The official forecast for central Ohio was generally fair tonight and Sunday with warmer weather Sunday.

Mrs. Pearl Miller, Salvation Army worker, was stricken by the heat today in the yard of the J. M. Bell residence at 265 south Main street. She was making a house to house canvass with Salvation Army magazines and was overcome by the heat. She was stricken at 1:15 p. m. The W. C. Boyd invalid car removed her to her home at 596 Oak street. A physician who examined her said that the prostration was not serious.

Condition Critical

A former Marion woman, Mrs. Pheobe Ann Gunder, 91, mother of M. H. Gunder of west Center street, is in critical condition in Kansas City, Mo., following her prostration by the heat Tuesday. She traveled from Marion to Missouri frequently and was expected to return here in October. She has made her home with her son here for a greater part of the last 10 years.

The low mark reached yesterday afternoon when the mercury plunged from a high of 93 to 70 degrees was the coolest Marion has been for several days. Eight-hundredths inches of rainfall accompanied the wind and low temperatures. A year ago a high temperature reading of 79 and a low of 60 were recorded here.

Summer's scourge struck terrifically in the midwest, the Associated Press said.

Illinois had 10 more heat deaths, eight of them in Chicago, where the temperature was shoved down to 72 at noon yesterday by lake winds, only to soar to 95 again by evening. The weather bureau predicted 98 for today. At Canton, Ill., an all-time June high of 104

Leaves for Europe, Voicing Confidence in War Debt Agreement

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, June 27—Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson was optimistic concerning an international agreement on the proposed debt and reparations moratorium as he sailed today on the liner Conte Grande for a European vacation. During his trip he is expected to join forces with Secretary of the Treasury Andrew W. Mellon in urging Europe to accept the Hoover plan.

"I have been asked to comment on last night's vote of the French chamber of deputies and I decline, except to say that I am very optimistic as to the untimate result," he declared.

MATCH WILL END TODAY

British on Short End of Odds After Losing First Events.

By The Associated Press

SCIOTO COUNTRY CLUB, COLUMBUS, O., June 27—The American professional golf stars, paced by Captain Walter Hagen's sub-par 70, led their British rivals today in four of the eight singles matches at the half-way stage of the 36-hole route in the concluding battle for the Ryder cup.

The Britons led in two and were all square in the remaining pair.

The Americans, leading 3 to 1 in points as a result of the foursomes yesterday, needed four matches to take the team trophy from the British.

Hagen not only shot the most sensational golf but held the biggest margin as he became four up on the British leader, Charles Whitcombe, in the feature match for the well-blistered gallery of nearly 5,000 onlookers.

Gene Sarazen and Billy Burke, of the home forces, also broke par by a stroke as each posted 71. Sarazen led Fred Robson, three up, a margin the American piled up in the first three holes but was unable to extend. Burke, surpassing expectations, went to lunch two up on one of the prime British favorites, Archie Compston.

Densmore Shute, by winning the last two holes with sensational birdies led Bert Hodson, youngest of the Britishers, three up, to complete the American advantage at midday.

The standings at the end of 18 holes:

Billie Burke, United States, two up on Archie Compston.

Gene Sarazen, United States, three up on Fred Robson.

Abe Mitchell, Great Britain, one up on Wiffy Cox.

Johnny Farrell, United States, and Billie Davis, all square.

Densmore Shute, United States, three up on Bert Hodson.

Arthur Havers, Great Britain, two up on Craig Wood.

Walter Hagen, United States, four up on Charles Whitcombe.

Al Espinosa, United States, and Ernest Whitcombe, all square.

STATE DEATH TOLL MOUNTS

Seven Die in Ohio as Storm Strikes Northern Section.

LOSS SET AT $2,000,000

Marion County Escapes Serious Damage; Damages Reported Near Here.

Marion county apparently escaped any serious effects of the storm which swept across Ohio and adjoining states yesterday afternoon, leaving a trail of death and heavy damage.

The only injury in this city attributed to the unruly winds occurred yesterday afternoon when a piece of timber, carried by the wind, struck Mrs. Reuben Greenland when she went to the garage in the rear of her home at 573 Avondale avenue. She was hit on top of the head and suffered a small gash.

District Hit

A checkup today revealed the only storm damage in the county to be broken limbs and an occasional fallen tree. The most pronounced effect of the storm was the sudden plunge in local temperatures.

Other counties in this district were less fortunate. Some sections reported telephone service disrupted by falling trees and branches. Grain and small fruit in most counties of the district suffered. Roofs were torn from buildings at Marysville, and near Mt. Gilead, Marengo and Edison in Morrow county. Hail was felt in Ashley where trees were blown down and crops were damaged.

Northern Ohio yesterday afternoon experienced one of its worst storms, which caused an estimated $2,000,000 damage, deaths for seven persons and injuries for 16 others. A merciless wind and electrical storm caught counties bordering the Great Lakes region, according to the Associated Press.

Waterspouts were reported seen in Lake Erie yesterday.

The storm swept through Ohio between Conneaut on the east and Sandusky on the west, reaching as far south as Columbus and centering its force around Cleveland.

Heavy damage was caused to fruit trees along Lake Erie.

Telephone and telegraphic communication was severely disrupted in many places. State highways were blocked by flood waters and broken trees.

Two of the dead were struck by lightning; one man was killed when he touched a live wire; two

JURY DELIBERATES ON RUBIO KILLING

Will Decide Fate of Deputy Sheriff Held in Death of Mexican Youth.

By The Associated Press

ARDMORE, Okla., June 27—A district court jury deliberated today over the fate of William E. "Bill" Guess, former deputy sheriff, on one murder charge growing out of the fatal shooting of two Mexican students here the night of June 7.

The shirt-sleeved jurors received the case about 7:30 last night after attorneys completed arguments on the legal responsibility of Guess for the slaying of Emilio Cortes Rubio, a kinsman of the president of Mexico.

Judge John B. Ogden, presiding, instructed the jury to return one of three verdicts: First degree murder, which might carry with it the death penalty; first degree manslaughter, with a minimum of four years in prison, or acquittal. Oklahoma juries fix the penalty.

The panel was locked up at 10 p. m.

WALTER SAGE

WALTER SAGE IS SERIOUSLY HURT AT WORK

Marion Man in Critical Condition from Concussion of Brain.

WAS SURVEYING HIGHWAY

Taken to Hospital by Passing Motorist; Driver Not Held.

Walter Sage, 22, assistant county surveyor, was hit by a motor truck while at work today at 9:15 a. m. on the Upper Sandusky pike, and suffered a cerebral concussion which hospital officials and his physician regard as extremely critical.

Sage was struck by a heavy Atlantic & Pacific Tea Co. truck coming south from Upper Sandusky and driven by Frank Bender of Columbus. Bender told Cecil R. Leavens, county surveyor, that he sounded the horn and that as he started to pass Sage stepped around the surveying instrument. He told police that he had misjudged his distance in trying to pass Sage.

Transit Destroyed

The transit on a tripod which Sage was using was thrown 40 feet and was destroyed. The left front fender of the truck was dented when it struck Sage's body.

Sage was knocked unconscious when the accident occurred. He had not regained consciousness at noon, although his physician said his condition showed a very slight improvement and that he appeared to be breathing easier.

Bender reported to city police and was not held. Sage was brought to the hospital in a car driven by Ed. Moon, who did not leave his address.

No one witnessed the accident. Lot D. Jones of the state highway department, and J. W. Schwaderer who were surveying with Sage were in a field and did not know of the accident until they signaled him to sight ahead and he did not respond.

Working for State

At the time of the accident Sage was working as an instrument man for the state highway department. State engineers were surveying the road preliminary to improvements.

Sage was graduated from Wooster college in 1929. He was one of the star players on the college basketball team. He was graduated from Harding High school in 1925.

His parents are Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Sage of 611 Girard avenue. His father is manager of the F. W. Woolworth Co. store here.

Mellon and Premier Laval Start Negotiations To Eliminate Differences.

FRENCH SUPPORT MOVE

Chamber of Deputies Authorizes Continuation of Conferences by 197 Majority.

By The Associated Press

PARIS, June 27—Momentous negotiations seeking to harmonize the French and American viewpoints on President Hoover's debt suspension proposal opened shortly after 10 a. m. today between Andrew W. Mellon, American secretary of the treasury, and Premier Laval.

The conversations started shortly after the arrival of Mellon and Ambassador Edge at the ministry of the interior.

Premier Laval, who had been up most of the night attending debate on his policy regarding the Hoover plan, had been able to catch only a two-hour nap this morning.

The conference was concluded shortly before 6 p. m. today.

The premier and secretary, together with other French and American officials who were present at the conference will meet again Monday, M. Laval announced at the conclusion of the meeting.

Approves Laval Plan

By a majority of 197 the chamber of deputies today upheld the French government on its reply to the Hoover moratorium plan, and authorized Premier Laval to continue negotiations with Mellon.

After a stormy session beginning yesterday noon and ending this morning, the deputies adopted by a vote of 386 to 189 a motion approving the government's stand with qualifications. The government had made the motion a question of confidence and Premier Laval had taken the platform to urge its passage.

The motion read: "The chamber, approving the French government's answer to the proposal of the President of the United States, counts upon it to assure at the same time the intangibility of the unconditional annuity accepted at The Hague by the power signatories to the Young plan and the necessities of a policy of peace and economic cooperation, and rejecting all additions passes to the next business of the agenda."

Brilliant Victory

Premier Laval thereby won one of the most brilliant victories in the history of parliament by wringing from a reluctant chamber its approval of his counter-proposal which provides that Germany shall be granted a one-year moratorium on reparations payments only in accordance with the Young plan.

Critics of the government's policies—even those who paid homage to President Hoover's offer—based

Tough Job

(Will Rogers Special)

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif., June 27—Mr. Mellon has got a tough job. He has got to go to Paris and explain to the French that it's better if Germany didn't pay anything for a year.

Now when you start in telling France something about Germany that's kinder like explaining politics to Calvin Coolidge. It can't be done.

France will say "That's fine, Mr. Mellon, from a Pittsburgh angle, but we happen to live right across the river from 'em and we know what's going to happen to us soon as they are able again. What are you trying to do, shorten our lives one year?" Yours,

Will Rogers

MONTICELLO CLUB MAY BE REOPENED

Marion Men Negotiate for Lease; Padlock May Be Removed.

An announcement from federal court in Toledo that the Monticello club, padlocked a month ago, will be freed from padlock when a bond of $500 is placed with the court was accompanied by reports here today that James Imses, proprietor, is negotiating with two local men for the lease of the club.

Announcement of complete plans for the future of the club could not be obtained today. It was indicated that the club may become a public dining room or inn.

According to word obtained from the clerk of the federal court in Toledo by the Associated Press, the bond necessary to raise the padlock has not yet been supplied, and that the ban has not been modified.

The club, one of the most elaborate in this section, was ordered padlocked after James Imses, proprietor, had been fined $200 and sentenced to 90 days in the workhouse on liquor charges. The club was raided last year by federal officers.

Democratic Leaders Praise Hoover Plan

By United Press

WASHINGTON, June 27—The fervent worldwide acclaim which is being heaped on President Hoover for his moratorium proposal has even drawn Jouett Shouse, chairman of the Democratic national executive committee and Senator Pat Harrison of Mississippi, the senate's leading Democratic satirist, who are trying to outdo each other in singing praises.

Both made speeches last night, Shouse declaring Mr. Hoover showed "statesmanship, courage and decision," and Harrison declaring "it was a fine stroke and a gracious and constructive move."

HARRISBURG, Pa.—Revival of the family photograph album, discontinued with other customs of the "Gay Nineties" and succeeding days, is urged by Major Lynn C. Adams, superintendent of the Pennsylvania state police.

Keeping of a family album, Major Adams points out, is a valuable aid to authorities in seeking missing persons, and inability of police to secure good photographs or fingerprints of such persons has led to many an unnecessary burial in a Potter's field.

"Family photographs," says Major Adams, "serve their best purpose when persons are reported missing. Photographs and fingerprints of criminals usually are obtained as the result of prior arrests, but when 'John Doe' or his daughter disappear from home, police are unable to obtain reliable descriptions.

"Only those with long experience in such cases can appreciate the inability of relatives and friends to furnish reliable descriptions of missing persons. Those who have lived daily with the missing person are often unable accurately to describe the color of hair or eyes for the benefit of authorities.

A good photograph of the missing person is the best and easiest way of putting authorities on the alert.

FINDS HEALTH AID

PRAGUE—A new elixir of life has been found. It consists of vegetables fed with iodine, says Professor Dr. Stoklasa, who has tried the experiment on himself. For several weeks he has eaten only potatoes, cucumbers, radish and spinach, all nurtured in iodine. Professor Stoklasa asserts that he feels much healthier as a result and that, according to special measurements he made, the process of metabolism in his organism became much quicker and was freed of any injurious acids.

MEXICO STRIVES TO POPULARIZE SPORTS

Aims To Combat Foreign Influence with Stamp of Nationalism.

By International News Service

MEXICO CITY—An intensive campaign "to put the stamp of nationalism" on indoor and outdoor activities has been inaugurated under the sponsorship of the culture and social committee of the capitol.

Irked by the pronounced foreign influence apparent in practically all public affairs of social and educational value, the nationalization enthusiasts adopted a resolution urging the government to cooperate in a countrywide campaign based on the following fundamentals:

1—Popularize distinctly national sports such as fronton; a combination of handball and basketball. In conjunction with that, minimize foreign diversions such as golf, baseball and American football.

2—Prohibit motion pictures in the foreign tongue, allowing only those presented in correct Spanish. (At present the films of American origin are offered in the English language for the most part, with printed translations of Spanish appearing jointly on the screen.)

3—Encourage native fairs characterized by native customs.

Strictly enforce the existing law requiring all advertising signs to be printed in Spanish.

Request civil departments to see to it that henceforth all civic activities bear "the stamp of true Mexican nationalism, eliminating such activities tending to alienate patriotism."

Penny-a-Pound Dance Produces Novel Results

By International News Service

CAMBRIDGE, Mass.—A "penny-a-pound" dance held by Massachusetts Institute of Technology students in Walker Memorial furnished several interesting features.

Sixteen students passed the entrance for less than a dollar. The majority of the girls weighed from 105 to 115 pounds and about a dozen students paid about $1.40.

The lightest girl was Miss Mary McDonald of Newton who captured a prize of a huge stalk of bananas. Her escort paid 88 cents. Heavyweight honors went to a girl weighing 169 pounds but her escort had the last laugh when his money was refunded by the judges.

While none of the "small" freshmen took advantage of the affair by coming stag and paying for their own weight they weren't without trying a novel stunt. One freshman dressed as a girl was escorted into the hall with the result that two "stags" passed for the price of one.

Of a world production of Portland cement last year estimated at 400,000,000 barrels between 40 and 50 per cent was made in the United States.

FINDS PRICELESS VASE

By International News Service

LOS ANGELES, Calif.—Jay Elmont, world traveler, by accident discovered he owns a priceless and curiously designed Chinese vase believed made during the Ming Dynasty in 1465. While in China Elmont purchased a cheaply moulded earthen Buddha. Recently the idol was broken revealing the vase. Hans Von Koerber, art authority at the University of Southern California, established identification of the ancient ware. He explained the vase probably was hidden in the Buddha because it had been stolen and theft of imperial property meant death by beheading.

An eccentric person, Gen Smuts. Uncle Sam can name for payment nations able to pay, but refuses to "climb down," with a statement strictly in accordance with Newton's law.

THE NEWS of each day is like a three fashioned layer cake, or a dish of Neapolitan ice cream, one flavor better than the other

Immigration to this country is the lowest in 66 years, which shows that ambitious men and women with courage and new ideas, the sort that made this country, are shut out. That is bad news.

• • •

THE AMERICAN Library Association in conference at New Haven completed with ease a one million dollar endowment fund and will get another million from a foundation, not named. The money will be used, largely, for "adult education" which is important and neglected. Millions of men and women past 30, and past 50, long for education, and would make good use of it. That is good news.

WASHINGTON believes that President Hoover plans to help, financially, our neighbors in South America. Conditions there are bad, because of the drop in commodity prices. Argentine suffers from the low price of wheat. Chile is hurt by the drop in metals, and Brazil by demoralization of the coffee market.

The coffee that we once bought from Brazil for 200 million dollars we now buy for 45 millions, same amount, same quality.

American business, which has greatly increased in South America steadily turning toward us, and away from Europe, will be glad to know that South America will have help.

SOME MODERN teachers, healers orientalists, etc., tell you man is nothing but his own thought, what you think you are. It does not work out 100 per cent, unfortunately. You cannot think yourself out of a cold in the hear, or into a job.

But a general mental condition is important. For instance, Germany had been pouring gold into the United States. We were getting so much of it that our treasury was worried, and Germany was being rapidly depleted.

There is talk and thought about a moratorium, one year's suspension of war debt payments, all around. The outlook of business and the world becomes more cheerful. German exchange rises, and, following the President's announcement, the Germans find it unnecessary to forward a large gold shipment already loaded on the Bremen. It is taken off the ship and back to the Reichsbank.

POST, GATTY FLYING AHEAD OF SCHEDULE

Well Past Half-Way Point in Aerial Dash Around World.

ON 850-MILE HOP TODAY

Route Carries Them Over Siberian Area, One of World's Wildest Sections.

By The Associated Press

IRKUTSK, Siberia, June 27 — Far ahead of their pell-mell schedule and well past the half-way point in their 15,000 mile dash around the world, Wiley Post and Harold Gatty sped their mono plane, Winnie Mae, out of Irkutsk today for an 850-mile hop to Blagoveshchensk Siberia.

They arrived at Blagoveshchensk at 8 p m tonight (6 a m Marion time)

The fliers landed in a mud hole but were not harmed They plan to leave for Khabarovsk, eastern Siberia, at 3 a m tomorrow morning (1 p m Saturday, Marion time)

They landed here at 11 55 a m today (11 55 p m Friday Marion time) from Novo Sibirsk, completing the 1,050 miles in six hours and ten minutes, and hopped off again at 2 10 p m (2 10 a m Marion time), taking only a little more than two hours to prepare for a dash over some of the wildest country on the globe

Decide on Shorter Stop

Originally they had planned to go on to Khabarovsk, 1,100 miles east of here, without a stop, but decided to make the shorter flight in order to pick up weather reports. They expected to reach Blagoveshchensk at 8 tonight and rest there until dawn tomorrow, then proceeding to Khabarovsk

If weather conditions are favorable they expect to attempt a non stop flight from Khabarovsk straight across the remaining stretch of Siberia, the gulf of Tartary, the sea of Okhotsk, the Kamchatka peninsula and the Bering sea to Nome, Alaska, a distance of 1200 miles.

Post and Gatty said they had had but eight hours sleep since starting their world flight in New York They insisted they were feeling fine, however.

Over Wild Country

Some of the wildest country in the world lay beneath the racing plane.

This course took them across the frontier of Manchuruia and through the forbidding northern section of that state again into southern Siberia and probably is the most desolate section of their journey There are no landing fields and little enough level territory to provide even emergency stopping places The towns are settlements of a dozen to a few hundred persons each and to the inhabitants the airplane is unknown

Post and Gatty remained a little longer here than they had planned. They had a brief rest and inspected their plane as it was being refueled They said they expected the ship to carry them back to New York "without a quiver."

They were about 28 hours ahead of schedule when they left here and predicted they would shatter all existing round-the-world records

Post and Gatty originally set ten days as their time to go around the world They had covered 8,050 miles of their 15,000 mile schedule in three days and 19 hours when they landed here.

PLAN DEPORTATIONS IN OHIO COAL STRIKE

Authorities Hit at Aliens Taking Part in Disturbances in Steubenville District.

By The Associated Press

STEUBENVILLE, O., June 27—Deportation proceedings against aliens are planned by authorities today.

While several disturbances occurred in Jefferson county yesterday, other regions in this coal area remained quiet.

From Athens, in the Sunday Creek and Hocking fields came the report that a committee had been selected by the United Mine Workers to meet with employers on a basic wage scale.

At Steubenville authorities released seven men who had been arrested in connection with stone throwing at the Dillonvale mine of the Hanna Coal Co., while the National Miners Union, which is attempting to organize the eastern Ohio field, withdrew its pickets from Dillonvale to concentrate them around the Bainbridge mine at Mount Pleasant and the Sommers mine at Adena.

Two arrests were made, one at Dillonvale, where Tony Dudlay, 32, was charged with making abusive remarks to working miners, and the other at Mount Pleasant where Homer Calhoun, 20, was cut about the head. He charged Frank Komark, 36, had threatened to stab him.

Her income has run into thousands of dollars and she has won the plaudits of all South America, but the arena of blood and sand will know her no more. RED MEETING STARTS RIOT

Several Injured in Street Fighting at Communist Assembly at Barberton.

TEAR GAS BOMBS USED

Meeting Called in Protest Against Alleged Abduction of Organizer.

By The Associated Press

AKRON, O, June 27—Several men, women and children today nursed bruised heads and bodies or irritated eyes, noses and throats as the aftermath of street fighting and tear gas bombing in Barberton last night, which was precipitated by a Communist meeting.

Shortly after the start of the meeting which was called in protest against the alleged abduction by Barberton policemen of C Lopis Alexander, Negro Communist organizer, an estimated 3,000 persons were embroiled in the clash.

It was not long until clubs and fists were flying and a barrage of tear gas was laid down.

Newspapermen Injured

Frank Dempshaw, 35, a staff photographer for the Akron Beacon Journal and his assistant, Edwin Kane, a reporter, was bruised on the head An unidentified man suffered a burn on his leg from the gas Two men were arrested.

No sooner had Miss Jennie Cooper of Cleveland a Communist organizer, started to explain that the meeting was to be peaceable "for a redress of grievances," than she and her listeners began choking from tear gas Witnesses said they saw men in uniform hurl the bombs

In the midst of the gas attack men with clubs descended upon the meeting and free-for-all fighting began

Women and children fled Men Communists rallied around Miss Cooper as she urged them to stand fast.

Flee, Then Reassemble

They fled, however, when they could tolerate the gas no longer. As they reassembled they were pursued by about 1,000 people. More bombs were thrown.

Police grabbed two Communist leaders, and as they took them to headquarters, the crowd followed

The Communists had scheduled a meeting several days ago and had asked a permit. Mayor S A. Decker told them that there was no need for a permit and that police would not interfere if the meeting were orderly.

Reports were current, but not verified, that deputized Barberton policemen had wielded the clubs Newspapermen "covering" the fight said that Barberton policemen had hurled the bombs

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, June 27—With the scalp of Alphonse Capone dangling on his belt, the government has opened its offensive to wipe out another liquor syndicate reputedly allied with the "Scarface Al" interests.

Fifty-nine men and two firms were indicted by a federal grand jury yesterday for violating the liquor laws in operating a syndicate, with headquarters at Aurora, Ill., that operated in Illinois and Iowa.

More than 2,000,000 gallons of alcohol were produced and distributed by the syndicate since 1927, government officials charge. The federal operatives said the syndicate was allied with Capone and that many of those indicted were one-time alcohol-cookers in "Scarface Al's" mob.

FRENCH SUPPORT MOVE

Chamber of Deputies Authorizes Continuation of Conferences by 197 Majority.

By The Associated Press

PARIS, June 27 Momentous negotiations seeking to harmonize the French and American viewpoints on President Hoover's debt suspension proposal opened shortly after 10 a m today between Andrew W. Mellon, American secretary of the treasury, and Premier Laval

The conversations started shortly after the arrival of Mellon and Ambassador Edge at the ministry of the interior.

Premier Laval, who had been up most of the night attending debate on his policy regarding the Hoover plan, had been able to catch only a two-hour nap this morning

The conference was concluded shortly before 6 p m today.

The premier and secretary, together with other French and American officials who were present at the conference will meet again Monday M Laval announced at the conclusion of the meeting

Approves Laval Plan

By a majority of 197 the chamber of deputies today upheld the French government on its reply to the Hoover moratorium plan, and authorized Premier Laval to continue negotiations with Mellon

After a stormy session beginning yesterday noon and ending this morning, the deputies adopted by a vote of 386 to 189 a motion approving the government's stand with qualifications The government had made the motion a question of confidence and Premier Laval had taken the platform to urge its passage

The motion read: "The chamber, approving the French government's answer to the proposal of the President of the United States, counts upon it to assure at the same time the intangibility of the unconditional annuity accepted at The Hague by the power signatories to the Young plan and the necessities of a policy of peace and economic cooperation, and rejecting all additions passes to the next business of the agenda."

Brilliant Victory

Premier Laval thereby won one of the most brilliant victories in the history of parliament by wringing from a reluctant chamber its approval of his counter-proposal which provides that Germany shall be granted a one-year moratorium on reparations payments only in accordance with the Young plan

Critics of the government's policies—even those who paid homage to President Hoover's offer—based

Tough Job

(Will Rogers Special)

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif., June 27—Mr. Mellon has got a tough job. He has got to go to Paris and explain to the French that it's better if Germany didn't pay anything for a year.

Now when you start in telling France something about Germany that's kinder like explaining politics to Calvin Coolidge It can't be done.

France will say "That's fine, Mr. Mellon, from a Pittsburgh angle, but we happen to live right across the river from 'em and we know what's going to happen to us soon as they are able again. What are you trying to do, shorten our lives one year?" Yours,

Will Rogers

WASHINGTON, June 27—Intent and expectant, President Hoover today kept in close communication with Parisian conference rooms where representatives of two governments sought to remove immediate obstacles to an inter-governmental debt holiday.

The difficulties were reduced by one overnight with the French chamber of deputies' approval of its ministry's attitude toward the moratorium proposal. This brought some encouragement to the chief executive and Washington officialdom generally, although there was no effort to minimize the delicacy and deliberateness with which the next work must be accomplished.

DREISER ANSWERED BY LABOR LEADERS

Federation Based on American Ideals, Novelist Is Told.

By United Press

WHEELING, W. Va., June 27—West Virginia state and labor officials today answered charges made by Theodore Dreiser, the novelist, against the American Federation of Labor by defending the federation as "an organization based on American ideals as opposed to communism."

Harry Norrington, vice president of the state Federation of Labor, said the American federation always had discouraged radicalism. He declared that the National Miners' union, which is sponsoring strikes in Pennsylvania, West Virginia and Ohio, fostered communistic ideals

Dreiser's attack on the United Mine Workers of America, affiliated with the American Federation of Labor, was answered by John Cinque, president of subdistricts 5 and 6 of the union Cinque scored the novelist's charges that the union and federation were aligned with capital.

In reply to the novelist's remarks lauding the National Miners' union, Cinque said, "The N. M. U. must get away from its radical ideas if it expects to have a part in the union movement of the nation."

John Ulrich, labor representative to the West Virginia legislature, praised the American Federation of Labor

"Only the sound judgment of an organization experienced in dealing with labor troubles will be able to relieve conditions existing in this coal mining district," he said.

No Danger if You See Flash of Lightning, Experts Say

KANSAS CITY, Mo.—The World war veteran will tell you that it was the shell that he could not hear that did all the damage and meterologists assert that it is the flash of lightning that you do not see over which concern should be manifested.

Weather observers are hard put to answer all the questions asked about lightning, its relation to rain storms, whether the thunder sours milk and the best precautions to take to keep from being killed by it.

Not all the lightning flashes that are seen on stormy days ever strike the earth, say the scientists. In fact, only a small percentage of them hit the terrestial neighbor.

So if you are one of those individuals who goes to the cellar or hides his head under the quilt when the lightning flashes, you may console yourself with the thought that the chances are about 100 to 1 against the bolt striking even the earth you are living on, much less singling out yourself.

If you are stricken with fear every time you see a flash of lightning you are being just as silly as the small boy who is afraid of the dark when he knows there is nothing there except the dark, say the experts. For if you see the lightning flash, all well and good. It has already gone to its destination and you are still in good health.

Just figure it out. You see the flash—the light impulse is being carried to your sensory brain center. The thought goes to the reasoning center of your brain and you think something should be done about it. You decide to cry out. From the motor center of your brain the impulse goes to your larynx or voice box to make the cry.

All that takes time and if you had been hit you would have been unable to accomplish more than about half of the necessary motions.

NINETY MOTORISTS GIVEN TRAFFIC TAGS

Fines in Court Session Total $50; Many Are Warned.

Ninety motorists who received tags for various traffic violations during the week, appeared in traffic court yesterday to tell how it happened.

Of the 90 who were tagged, 58 were for parking overtime in the two-hour zone while 12 were for not observing the stop street signs. Because of it being the first offense of most of the drivers and the fact that the drive against violators was started without warning of any kind, many of the tagged were excused with a warning by Municipal Judge W. R Martin.

Although many were excused more than $50 in fines was collected. Most of those fined were second offenders or were guilty of double parking or parking in alleys.

The war against those who park overtime or do not observe the stop street signs, will be continued, according to the police, and if any of those excused yesterday, should be stagged again for a similar offense, they will not escape so easily, it was pointed out by Municipal Judge Martin this morning.

The Value of Forethought

By The Schaffner-Queen Co.

Service, to be truly effective must be the product of forethought.

That is why a funeral director who has had many years of experience is in a position to render adequate efficient and satisfying service.

He is equal to any emergency which may arise in the performance of his duties—for he has thought out the answers to all questions that are likely to be asked He knows the solution to every problem far in advance.

His forethought also applies to the prices he charges. He looks ahead for the bereaved family, and sees to it that they are not making selections which are beyond their means He estimates all costs in advance and quotes the price for the funeral in its absolute entirety.

Speakers Hit Prohibition Repeal in Speeches Here

Anti-Saloon League Workers Address 150 Marion Residents After Dinner at Eppworth M. E. Church; Deny Increased Drinking Among Young People.

Two primary reasons why no change should be made in the present prohibition laws, Rev. William P. McGarey, D. D. of Washington, D. C., told a group of 150 persons at the Epworth M. E. church last night, are, first, that prohibition has not been a failure, and second, that nothing as good has been offered as a substitute by the wets.

Rev. Mr. McGarey, who is assistant to the general superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League of America, was one of the speakers at a dinner meeting given by the manufacturer and business committee of the Anti-Saloon League. The affair was in charge of a committee of 22 with John H. Clark as chairman.

Hold Series

The meeting was one of a series being held by the Anti-Saloon League throughout the United States for the purpose of raising funds to carry on the fight against the repeal or modification of the eighteenth amendment.

The charge of drinking made against the youth of the country was attacked by the speaker who said he believed that no finer group of young people ever lived, than the present generation. He placed the blame for the charge on the parents. The old song, "Where Is My Wandering Boy Tonight," should read the speaker said, "Where Is My Wandering Mamma Tonight?"

Repeated reports of drinking among high school students in a western city, Rev. Mr. McGarey, said, resulted in 1,000 lockers in the school being opened by the school officials with the result that no liquor of any description was found. The charges had been made that the students kept their bottles in their lockers.

Charges that American citizens crossed into Canada to obtain their supply of liquor was also refuted by the speaker who said that only one out of every hundred took out a permit to obtain liquor whereas one out of every eight Canadians obtained such permits.

Westerville Man Speaks

The repeal or modification of the eighteenth amendment because of its alleged failure to stop drinking was declared to be silly by the speaker. "Should the law against murder be repealed because murders have not ceased? Should all of the traffic laws of the city be repealed because hundreds violate the laws each year?" he asked.

Boyd P. Doty, of Westerville, assistant director of education, of the Anti-Saloon league, who also spoke, said the prohibition question had been placed first in importance in a list of 32 national questions by the National Economic League, a group of 2,000 leading economists of the country.

The vast increase in savings bank and building and loan accounts since the enactment of prohibition was pointed out by the speaker as a vital reason against the repeal or modification of the eighteenth amendment. He also said in refuting charges of the failure of prohibition, that the arrests for drunkenness in New York City had been reduced one-third and those arrested for the first time on a drunkenness charge, one-fourth.

The committee in charge of the meeting included John H. Clark, chairman, J. H. Bain, Ruth Born, A. W. Bryant, Rev. M. L. Buckley, Rev. John A. Carriker, Rev. J. A. Dodd, F. C. Gegenheimer, Rev. William M. George, Earl N. Hale, Mrs. H. K. Henderson, Millard Hunt, Mrs. A. O. Jennings, Dr. W. L. Johnson, Rev. Irvin Kaufman, Mrs. Frank M. Knapp, Mrs. S. M. Midgley, Mrs. H. K. Mouser, D. C. Meaning of Religion

A SERMONETTE

DR. C. E. TURLEY,

Pastor, Epworth M. E. Church

Men of Athens I perceive that you are, in every respect, remarkably religious." —Acts 17:22 (Weymouth).

RELIGION seems to be as old as the life of Man From primitive times and remote ages, down to the present, religion has played an important part in human development and the advancement of civilization. To neglect religion is to shut out from your life one of the greatest factors in the enrichment of human experience and the building of character.

Youth needs the stabilizing power of a vital religion There are a number of things that have created a peculiar "youth complex," an emotional instability. Lack of home discipline; the increase in the freedom of action and speech; the inordinate desire for speed and new thrills; rebellion against any form of control; training in the sciences without a corresponding spiritual training adequate to handle the new acquisitions, all of these have produced a state of nerves and go to show the need of the conserving power of a real and dynamic Religion.

Religion will give mental and spiritpal poise to the life of man. Hold him steady in times of confusion and keep him from falling when the sudden emergencies and crisis hours come. Religion can give peace to the heart. "My peace I give unto you," says the Founder of our Christian religion.

Religion can become a powar in quickening the mind, in inspiring clean thinking, as well as noble living. Religion lends Hope to the spirit of Man. In the midst of the fears of life, the petty worries, the afflictions, the cares, the disappointments, the struggles, the failures, Hope becomes the anchor of his soul, sure and steadfast, entering to that which is beyond the veil

Religion can be a source of great joy to the soul. "That my joy might be in you and that your joy might be full"

So religion means poise, peace, inspiration, hope and joy to your life. Do not allow the things of time and sense, the passing pleasures of the day, to put religion into the background of your life and make dim the vision of God and shut out the companionship your soul can have with Jesus Christ the author and finisher of our faith

Daily Proverb—"Speak well of thy friends, be silent as to thy enemies."

Peoria, Illinois, has a "secret 100" corps of citizen volunteers to check up on traffic violations and report to the police. We can imagine a secret organization, all right, but a "secret 100" of citizen volunteers is a bit beyond our imagining ability.

The early spring frosts having failed to kill the Georgia peach crop, Georgia peaches are very plentiful, about 450 cars of the fruit rolling out of that state weekly. It is not explained in wholesale market reports what alibi is being offered this time for price maintenance.

Shortly after six big crates of hides were landed on a dock in New York City from a steamer just in from Porto Rico, the hides began to explode. Investigation developed that the corks had not been properly wired, and had been blown out under the hot rays of the sun. The moral of this story is that makers of champagne should not grow careless and cause embarrassment to the law-abiding citizens of this country who buy their goods.

Mayor Walker, according to a dispatch, has ordered ruthless war on the New York racketeers, telling the head of the police of that city to "treat 'em rough." It's just a bit hard to picture Mayor Jimmy in a ruthless role, but may be we have misjudged him. Let us hope that we have.

As the result of the recent visit of a red-headed girl and two men companions, a squad of dry agents invaded Sandusky one day this week and took away with them eighteen prisoners charged with violation of the prohibition law. It may be just as well for red-headed girls to pass up Sandusky for a time.

According to a New York story, a survey of retail establishments there shows that "the public is buying again, the Hoover debt moratorium proposal having speeded up the tempo of American business and put a new and hopeful rhythm into industry." If this is so, we'll say that the responsiveness of the buying public of New York City works on a hair trigger.

Following his pleas of not guilty, a citizen of Redfork, Oklahoma, is held under bond of $2,500, charged with having cut off the nose of his mother-in-law. Even recognizing a rather general prejudice, we believe that this will very generally be recognized as carrying it somewhat to the extreme.

Over in South Bend, Indiana, a court has been asked to annul the marriage of a young man of Utica, New York, and a young woman of Chicago. Both appeared in court and told much the same story. They met at a house party at which there was much drinking. They and several others routed out a justice of the peace at 2 o'clock in the morning and the two were married. The husband testified that he didn't know what he was doing at the time. The bride possibly was alike hazy. It is to make impossible marriages such as this that the general assembly very wisely enacted the new Ohio marriage license law.

The Cigaret Tax.

The bill imposing a one-cent stamp tax on each ten cigarets sold in Ohio awaits Governor White's action.

Public opposition to a cigaret tax is strong, but public opposition to a new tax always is strong. The true test of a tax's value are its effectiveness and the need for the revenue it produces, not its reception by the people.

Ohio needs revenue urgently. There is little prospect that it will escape a deficit in the next fiscal year, even if the assembly's tax program produces more than it is expected to produce. And it won't.

Ohio finances rarely have gone many figures into the red. An emergency situation exists now, and the assembly has turned to the cigaret tax to help meet it. No one denies the need for the revenue it is expected to produce. The tax's effectiveness depends in large measure on those who will bear it. The bill before Governor White imposes severe penalties for evasion of the tax on the part of dealers, but it can do nothing to regulate the actions of consumers. They must decide for themselves their attitudes.

If they encourage dealers to evade the law and sell unstamped cigarets, the state's problems will be complicated that much more. If sufficient numbers of people buy their cigarets from out-of-the-state concerns, the tax will suffer in effectiveness. Cigaret users must decide for themselves whether they want to pull or balk.

They should remember this: the cigaret tax is a temporary revenue-raising measure, to be discontinued as soon as the state's fiscal emergency is passed. Money must be raised by some means, and no better means was available to the assembly. If a cigaret tax won't work some other tax will have to be tried, and it too would be unpopular. That's the way it is with taxes.

France on Trial.

France is in "cordial accord with the high sentiments" inspiring President Hoover's international war debt moratorium proposal, but she diplomatically rejects it by offering a counter-proposal. France views the Germany situation sympathetically, but she does not propose to permit her sympathy to lead her into surrendering any assurance of debt and reparations payments which she has by virtue of the Young plan, and she insists that any scheme evolved for the amelioriation of the European financial situation must be under the Young plan and must carry assurance that any suspension of payments agreed upon will be but temporary; that the conditions of the plan must carry on.

The French counter-proposal is that Germany continue to raise the "non-postponable" portion of her reparations payments and deposit them in the Bank of International Settlements established under the Young plan. France is ready to promise that the funds thus deposited will not be withdrawn by her during the period of the moratorium. She is willing, if it is necessary, that such funds be paid back to Germany, or any other needy nation, in the form of short time credits.

The French position is not hard of understanding. She has not forgotten the drain of the World war on her man power, the awful cost to her in life and blood. She has not forgotten the leveling of her cities and towns, nor the area of her fair land laid waste. She remembers, too, the iron hand under which she was made to pay the price of defeat by the first treaty of Versailles, and she expects Germany to pay for her, Germany's, part in the World war as she, France, was made to pay the price of defeat in the Franco-Prussian, but she seemingly does not take cognizance of the possibility that failure to lighten at this time the burden on Germany may result in making worthless for all time any and all claims she has on Germany.

It is manifest that Washington officialdom hopes for a compromise as the outcome of the Hoover proposal. In fact, Secretary of State Stimson has formally announced that the United States is willing to compromise with France on a moratorium plan, the American feeling evidently being that half a loaf is better than no loaf at all, but should there be failure of an outcome of the President's proposal which will give relief to Germany, even admitting that such relief would be but temporary, the world will know where to place the responsibility for such failure.

The world has not forgotten the part of France in depriving Germany of her colonial possessions. The world will recall that it was French insistence which caused Germany's reparation bill to be fixed at more than $30,000,000,000; that it was France which was instrumental in the destruction of the German navy and the elimination of her merchant marine; that it was French insistence which caused Germany to be denuded of land defenses and the German army to be reduced to a police force. The world will recall that France would have the Rhineland occupied and that French troops were the last to quit it; that French demands brought the Geneva pact of mutual interest to naught, and that France has made of herself a stumbling block in the way of German recovery and progress ever since the conclusion of the war.

Were France in straits, this might be forgiven her, but she has been enjoying unusual prosperity and is rich. Were she defenseless, all these facts might be overlooked, but she is armed to the teeth and better prepared than ever before in her history to repel attack.

No matter what Germany's sins may have been in the past, she is prostrate today. It is France which is being tried in the court of world opinion.

Trader Horn.

A few years ago Aloysius Horn was an unknown itinerant peddler of kitchen ware pestering housewives in Johannesburg, South Africa. He stopped one day to show his wares to Mrs. Ethelroda Lewis, and fell into conversation about the adventures of his life, most of which had been spent in Africa.

From that conversation came a book that sold by hundreds of thousands and a moving picture that was exhibited to millions. "Trader Horn" became a familiar phrase in every corner of the English-speaking world; Aloysius Horn a familiar figure, though few people ever saw him in person.

It was a fair tale vitalization of a declining life and almost forgotten experiences—a thing that could only happen in an age of astute commercialization of out-of-the-way experiences. Aloysius Horn's long white beard alone was worth a cool million of American dollars for exploitation purposes.

The descent into obscurity, however, will not be much less rapid than the rise out of obscurity. Aloysius Horn died at his home in Whitestable, England, Friday. Thus passes the man who unexpectedly chanced upon fame and fortune in his old age. Soon the book and the moving picture will pass through the stages of dim memory to oblivion. They have furnished a colorful interlude of amusement, but they were not designed to last.

The government has lost its suit to recover $2,000,000 it claimed it overpaid the Great Northern railway on guarantees made after federal operation of the railroads ended. If government control and management left the Great Northern in the shape in which it left the majority of the railroads, $2,000,000 wouldn't come within a mile of making that railroad even as a result of Mr. McAdoo's experiment.

A plane crashed through the roof and upper floor of a farm house out near Glenview, Illinois, and landed in the dining room only a few minutes before the family ordinarily partook of its noonday meal. These informal plane calls are becoming entirely too common.

Manufacturers of menthol anti-freeze solutions for use in automobile radiators henceforth are so to color and mark their products and use all safeguards as to prevent fatal results from the drinking of their solutions. Who ever imagined at the time prohibition became the law of the land that its ramifications would be so confusingly widespread?

A NEW CONTINENT?

Many a statistician has offered a maze of figures and charts to prove that in the year 1984 or 2325 the entire productive land area of the world will be occupied, and that humanity will be up against it to produce enough to feed the billions of persons, now multiplying swiftly as the ravages of disease are coming more completely under control.

But the two-wise statisticians did not reckon with a generous Providence which shapes men's ends and also provides their lands. Only a few days ago the appearance of two new islands in the mid-Atlantic, between Brazil and Africa, was reported authoritatively. Being close by the St. Paul's island group, they lend color to the belief that a lost continent is emerging, slowly, to be sure, but with a high promise of new land for the nation which first plants its flag on Atlantis, or whatever the still submerged continent may be called.

Unhappily, Providence acts even more slowly than legislatures in providing for the supposed needs of mankind, and it would be premature certainly to count on any immediate relief in this direction. So if you are offered a superior home site on an Atlantis subdivision, it might be best to risk your money on real estate already above sea level—unless, indeed, you are sure of an exceedingly long life or expect to provide farms for a bevy of great grandchildren.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

A MEMORIAL FOR M'INTYRE.

A Missouri boy who "made good in the city," and who has written about hundredr of other small town boys that did likewise, is now to be honored in the small town of his own origin.

Plattsburg, Missouri, is going to convert into a memorial library to Oscar Odd McIntyre the old-fashioned house in which the famous newspaper columnist was born. And McIntyre, good soul that he is, has refused to assent to the plan unless the library serves also as a memorial to J. Breckenridge Ellis, another Plattsburg boy who became a writer of note without going away from home.

They didn't think much of Odd in Plattsburg in the days when he dwelt there. He was a dumb kid in school, he went in strong for loud clothes and his principal distinction was an ability to do more tricks on a bicycle than any other fellow in town.

But they think a lot of him now, and they don't mind saying so. Thus it is with many a town and its most famous son. Hannibal, Missouri, would be little known today, were it not Mark Twain's birthplace. Outside of its own state, Niles, Michigan, is known chiefly as Ring Lardner's point of origin. Sinclair Lewis made our own Sauk Centre famous. But none of the lot was any too well thought of on the day of his leaving.—Minneapolis Journal.

ENGLISH IN CUBA.

While there are laments from far and near that American tourists are not traveling in anything like their usual numbers this year, their language is still heard in foreign resorts. American films carry on the overseas conversations. In Cuba, a near neighbor, the talkies are helping to enlarge the native vocabulary of English words.

"O K" is one of the Americanisms most often heard in a stream of Spanish vocables, a Baltimore Sun dispatch reports. One of our uglier slang expressions, it has, curiously, proved to be the first Yankee idiom picked up by the speakers of various different languages.

Terms such as sport, all right, club, lunch, bar, etc., are freely mixed with Spanish speech and are used in signs and advertising. Other words, without an exact Spanish equivalent, have been naturalized and given Spanish endings. A boxer in Cuba becomes a boxeador, a football player a futbolista, and a baseball bat a bate.

Sports probably borrow most generously. Golf and its technical terms are unchanged for Spanish use—par, birdie, stymie, and so on. But miniature golf does not have to describe itself as Tom Thumb or "Tomas Pulgar." Simply adding the usual Spanish diminutive makes it "golfito."—New York Times.

A Victory for Science.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

Malaria is a disease which has been known to man since prehistoric times. There is every reason to believe that it was common long before the era of modern civilization. Hippocrates, "Father of Medicine," as early as the fifth century, B. C., gave an accurate description of this disease. Ancient Greek literature, extending from over 400 years B. C. to the fourteenth century A. D., describes the disease in almost the identical terms used by Hippocrates.

About 1640, a marked change occurred in the history of malaria. This was brought about by the introduction in Europe of the cinchona plant. This plant gave to mankind the first remedy for the treatment and cure of malaria. In addition, it served as a means of differentiating malaria fever from other fevers. Later, it was discovered that the value of cinchona is really due to its quinine content.

In 1880, Laveran, the French army surgeon, discovered the cause of malaria. The malaria plasmodium, the parasite causing the disease, was now definitely known.

In 1898, Sir Ronald Ross definitely determined the mosquito to be the carrying agent. He demonstrated that man can become infected only by the bite of a mosquito, and that only a certain species of mosquito transmits the malarial parasite.

With eradication of the mosquito and its breeding places, isolation of malarial patients and adequate hygienic care, this disease is now completely controlled. This was aptly demonstrated by the building of the Panama canal.

As you know, the French first attempted to build the canal and failed. Fifty thousand men died in the canal zone from attacks of malaria and the project was abandoned.

The building of the canal by the United States was made possible by the control of malaria. This was accomplished under the most capable direction of Dr. Gorgas. Were it not for our knowledge of malaria, this canal would never have been completed. With destruction of the breeding places of the mosquito, removal of filth and unhygienic surroundings, screening of homes and isolation of infected men, the canal was successfully completed.

Modern civilization and knowledge of medicine have accomplished what Hippocrates and the ancients strove for but failed to do. The story of malaria and mankind serves as one of the most striking example of progress in the history of the world.

Is All Life Unified?

BY ARCHIBALD HENDERSON.

The conception of the unity of all life is laying hold of scientists, nowadays, and inspiring many of their researches. The significance of the phrase, the unity of life, is not difficult to grasp. It may be explained that the same processes, or very similar ones, go on in all forms of life. Plants, animals, minerals are all sensitive to external stimuli and react in specific ways which can be accurately measured. Plants, animals, minerals all show the effects of the repetition of stimuli; react less vigorously as the stimulus is repeated; and ultimately cease to react at all, that is in any measurable way.

Microscopic amoeba have been found to shrink; and their appetite may even be detected. Sir Jagadis Chandra Bose, as pointed out in "The Science of Life" has shown, by a series of ingenious measurements, how plants give the semblance of elation or depression, under the action of favorable or unfavorable stimuli. They actually appear to shudder or to writhe, which gives a strong semblance of feeling. Of course all these phenomena appear wonderful because we use the language of subjectivity as if the plants were really conscious. Yet how do we know that such is not the case? For all we know, observes H. G. Wells, there may be gladness in dancing waves and a real freshness in the sunrise itself!

It would be interesting to know whether plants really feel anything. We may say that many plants grow towards the light, this being the meaning of the name of a familiar plant, the heliotrope. Another such plant is the sunflower, because it grows toward the sun. Other plants are known to respond to special stimuli; some grow away from the light, others toward water, and still others grow in a direction opposed to gravitational pull. But an ingenious experiment of an American inventor, Hammond, shows that such actions are not necessarily due to consciousness in plants. He invented a little machine on wheels that would follow a light as a dog follows its master. This little mechanism could actualy be led along any desired path in a dark room simply by holding a flashlight in front of it.

It by no means follows then that tropisms argue a reasoning mind in plants. Thus we read in "The Science of Life:" "The movements that plants perform—such as the turning of flowers and leaves toward the sun, the opening and closing of daisies which depend upon the light, the opening and closing of crocuses or tulips which depend upon temperature, or even the sudden swoon of the sensitive Mimosa pudica when it is touched—are brought about by processes very different from those occurring in our muscle-fibres. True, there are simple plants, as we shall shortly learn, which skip along by means of lashing tails, like animalcules." Sir J. C. Bose, by using very sentive apparatus, has detected quivers and shudderings in injured plants; but we may safely conclude that even if a plant is conscious its mind is something very different, very much more elementary than the highly organized individual consciousness that we ourselves possess. Calves' foot jelly can be made to quiver, an automobile started on high gear shudders; shuddering by no means implies pain.—Copyright, 1931, International Feature Service, Inc.

Sherman Under Fire.

BY J. H. GALBRAITH.

General Sherman probably knew the dangers of battle as well as any other soldier, but he had a way of controlling his nerves and apparently disregarding danger. One day, preceeding the Battle of Atlanta, he walked some distance from his headquarters at the Howard House to get a better view of the confederate work of reinforcement of their defense works.

Meeting there the field officer of the day, he exchanged views with him and together they viewed the operations through their field glasses and commented upon them. Stepping to one side, General Sherman took a position in front of a tree, and leaning back against it to steady himself and render his glasses more effective, the "zing" of a minnie ball was heard, and both officers noted that it imbedded itself in the trunk of the tree not much more than a foot above General Sherman's head.

It was a narrow escape from injury and both officers knew that it meant that a confederate sharpshooter was firing upon them from a position concealed in the foliage of the trees. Nevertheless, General Sherman did not permit the incident to interrupt his study of the confederate position and operations. He did not even take the glasses from his eyes until he had completed his observations.

Then he coolly observed to the field officer that the work on the defenses was being done by the Georgia militia, for they wore white shirts, which he knew to be distinctive to these troops. It was hardly a minute after this remark when there came a burst of artillery and infantry fire, and the Battle of Atlanta was on.

The field officer of the day who told this story was the late General I. R. Sherwood, of Toledo, and it was he who stood at the side of General Sherman when he had this narrow escape from a sharpshooter's bullet.

New York Day by Day.

BY O. O. M'INTYRE.

New York, June 27—Purely personal pains. It annoys my wife for me to rush ahead in a crowd. When I do she shouts: "Wait Peggy" and I turn red as a beet. I've often longed to run naked in a heavy rain. I never saw a drunken poet. My favorite feminine name is Jane. Masculine Douglas.

The neatest signature I know is that of L. Wade McGrath, a hotel owner. The most rugged people I ever met are from the state of Washington, the most congenial from Texas. There is an especial charm in a Cape Cod accent. I never attended a house party.

No one ever made me cry in the theater like Margaret Illington in "Kindling." The biggest laugh was when Ed Wynn, as a waiter, brought a horse to a patron who said he was hungry enough "to eat a horse." I used to stain my fingers with iodine to suggest a cigaret fiend.

I do not feel rude staring at a beautiful lady. To my notion it is a compliment. Some one reading my newspapers first completely spoil them for me. Letters in which I expect unpleasant news are left unopened for days. For a long time I thought "Defense d'Afficher" signs in Paris indicated armories.

I like to thread a needle and draw pictures on frosty window panes. Once I swallowed an overcoat button. Margola Gilmore's name to me suggests a mouth wash. Like the noise I make when I gargle. I like to sop catsup in hot rolls and melt ice-cream with my spoon.

Invariably I hook my foot in something when I look out a high window. I have never visited Milwaukee. The only security I have worth original value is a $500 Liberty bond. The most supremely aristocratic and intellectual spot I ever saw was The Hague. I never had a hang-nail.

I can watch swans in a pond for hours. When any one asks if I have seen a certain play I say I have whether so or not. The only football game I ever saw was in St. Louis twenty-five years ago. A tackle suffered a broken back. I am never disappointed reading a widely-discussed book.

I carry about $50 all the time and keep small change in my right outside coat pocket. The man I think gets the most fun out of life of all close friends is Frazier Hunt. My wife has never been able to cure me of accenting "po" in policeman. My greatest disillusionments came from meeting literary lions I long admired. I am unable to work if I know every one else has left the house.

* * *

Ferns are to me just so many weeds. About twice a year I dream of hearing the cry. "All ashore that's going ashore!" and find I'm bound hand and foot. I once sneaked up to a fellow gazing at snakes in the Cincinnati Zoo, pinched his leg and hissed. I thought it some one I knew. When they brought me to I discovered he was a total stranger. I look the other way when horses jump hurdles.

* * *

The only articles I remember in strange homes are beautiful lamps. I keep a carton of chewing gum on my desk at all times. I am gallant among elderly people, but abrupt among young folk. I never read Chaucer and go into a rage if I have to leave a meal to answer the phone. I always expect a girl named Margaret to be old-fashioned.

* * *

When I went to Dayton, Ohio, as a cub reporter I talked through my nose and tried to walk like George M. Cohan. Also I gave a bell hop fifty cents to page me while dining with a vaudeville actress at the Gibson in Cincinnati. I am pie footed. I like to walk in the Gramercy Park section at twilight and along the Bowery around midnight. I never ran across a silly ass Englishman except on the stage.

* * *

I think Olfred Freuh, born in Lima, Ohio, is America's grandest caricaturist. I never miss movies of wild animals and invariably call a ramp a vamp. My favorite figure in history is Napoleon and the most entertaining modern author is Somerset Maugham. No place like Dinty Moore's for boiled potatoes in jackets.

* * *

The meal I remember best was a breakfast of thin pork chops fried with apple rings at a country inn in the Berkshires. I am not a balanced conversationalist. I either talk too much or sit glum. If my wife would let me I would sport a crushed fly mustache. And I've always wanted to wear one of those Sherlock Holmes deer-tacking caps.—Copyright, 1931, McNaught Syndicate, Inc.

Where Vienna Relaxes.

BY TEMPLE MANNING.

One thing about Europe that never fails to interest sport-loving Americans is the various forms of athletics with which the people of the various nations amuse themselves.

In Germany we find the young men going in for the most strenuous exercises known. They box, wrestle, run, fence and swim with furious abandon. The Italians, under the Fascist regime, have also become devotees of the great outdoors. All through that country the visitor comes across huge athletic meets and competitions held under the guidance of Mussolini's regime.

The Viennese, famed for generations for their culture, gentleness and learning, are also turning to sports for relaxation. They have always been great hikers. But football and tennis are now claiming their attention as well as swimming. In fact in the center of the city itself, on the banks of the Danube canal, one finds the latter wooing the health that "Old Sol" bestows upon those who worship him.

A lovely part of Vienna is the Prater, which is the city's Bois de Boulogne. The Prater is a splendid, cool park of great proportions. It includes hundreds of acres of grassy swards and lovely woods. And for the picnic-loving portion of the population there are carousels, ferris-wheels and most all of the other attractions of our own Coney Island.

The famous Wienerwald hills enclose the city and they are the resort for all nature-loving Viennese during Sundays and holidays. In the winter these hills are the scenes of tobogganing and skiing.

The Austrian is not far behind his Swiss brother in his devotion to these bracing amusements.

Vienna has been so often called the most civilized capital in Europe that visitors to her precincts often come away disappointed. One must see this city in her entirety and against the background of her flamboyant and tempestuous history to realize why she deserves the title that has been bestowed upon her.

Twenty Years Ago.

It was Tuesday, June 27.

A daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Gamble, of Uncapher avenue.

A misdirectid wire was responsible for the belief here that Mrs. Hannah Emery, long a school teacher of this city, had died in Dallas, Texas, while enroute from Canton, Illinois, where she had been living, to California.

The intense heat which had prevailed locally for three days was broken by a downpour, thirteen-sixteenths of an inch of rain falling in a very short period.

A marriage license was issued to Blanche Harruff and James L. Ulsh.

A. H. Minkle, residing seven miles west of Marion, was appointed a deputy state highway commissioner.

Neither Seneff nor Regan could hold the Ohio River batsmen and Portsmouth scored four runs, shutting out Marion.

Otto Clark, Erie brakeman, was seriously injured in a crash in the local yards.

PLAN EVENTS FOR ASHLEY FAIR MEET

Expect Annual Gathering To Be One of Largest in Years.

Special to The Star

ASHLEY, June 27—The Ashley fair, which includes the Junior fair is counting on this year as its largest year as it is one of the first fairs in the state, and the farmers have one of the best prospects for farm products they have had in years, it is announced.

The gate admission has been reduced to 25 cents with automobiles free. Cars may be parked in the center field, making it more convenient for those wishing to use their machines. This week the road that leads to the fairgrounds has been repaired and a coat of tar applied, ridding the place of the unpleasant dust which has been so offensive in other years.

The art hall will make the best of showings this year for showcases have been provided for the exhibiting of baked goods and also for the showing of antiques, eliminating the handling of these valuable articles making for greater safety in their showing. The antique department was a new addition last year and a very good showing was made. This year it is expected to be larger because the premiums have been raised and the exhibitors have had more time for making their collections.

The fair will begin in full swing at 4 p. m. Wednesday, Aug. 5. Free entertainment will be provided for at night and all buildings will be well lighted. Thursday will be Junior day with a Junior night entertainment, and Friday will be Governor's day together with the home-coming.

Three races are scheduled for each day. On Aug. 6 there will be a 2:18 trot, 2:15 pace and a 2:24 trot. On Aug. 7 there will be a 2:17 pace, 2:20 trot and a 2:24 pace. The races will be started with the barrier system.

STORE UNDER NEW OWNERS

New Name on Sign Greets Customers of Hardware Firm.

The sign of the Thibaut and Mautz Bros Hardware Store which has hung over the front of the store for the past decade was taken down this week and in its place hangs a new one bearing the firm name of "Mautz Bros. Hardware," as shown in the accompanying illustration. The store is located at 147 south Main street.

While the store is new in name, it is old in service, marking a continuance of a business that was started more than quarter of a century ago.

With the taking down of the old store sign this week the hardware firm of Thibaut & Mautz Bros. becomes a matter of history, but the same principles of quality and service established by them more than a quarter of a century ago will continue

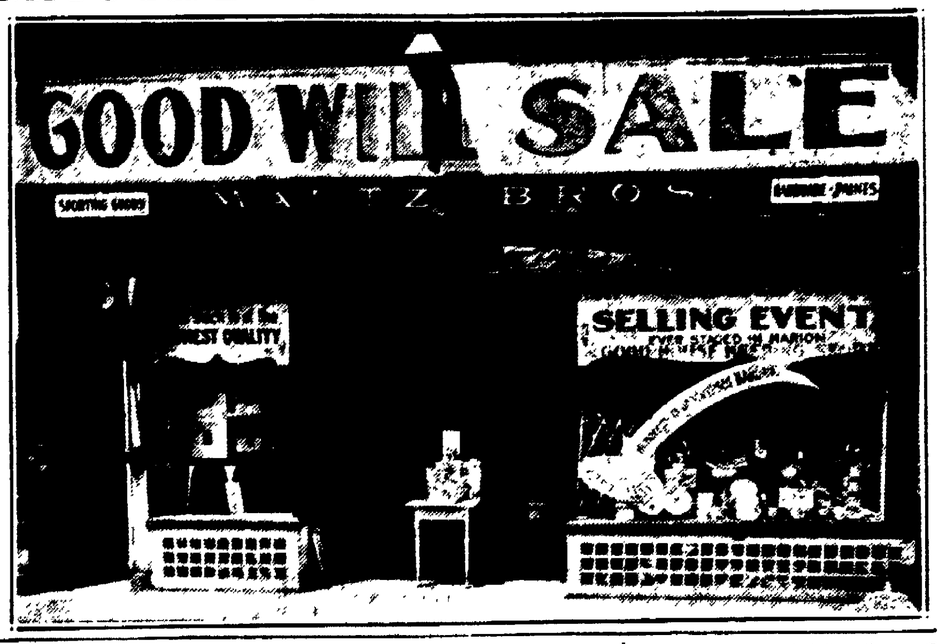
From its inception this store has always emphasized the importance of carrying only quality merchandise, under the slogan of "The Spot to Buy Better Hardware for Less." And now that Mautz Bros. have purchased the entire interests in this store and have closed out the stock of the old firm they are determined to continue this policy more aggressively than ever before.

Their long connection with the hardware industry in both wholesale and retail enables them to buy to advantage. They have searched the markets and you will now find genuine values not experienced in years.

Get Acquainted Sale

Your hardware dollars never bought greater values than right now. And to more thoroughly demonstrate the new low price levels and the advantages of their direct factory connections, the Mautz Bros. Hardware Store have announced that it will inaugurate a campaign of good will and a drive for 1,000 new customers to get acquainted with "The Spot to Buy Better Hardware for Less." This event will be announced in the Marion Star shortly.

MAUTZ BROS. HARDWARE STORE



Lowe Bros. Paints Sold Here for Three-fourths of Century

The hardware store now owned by Mautz Bros. has sold Lowe Bros. paints from its inception more than two decades ago, and its predecessors have sold it in Marion for three quarters of a century. One of the astonishing facts regarding the sale of this famous line in Marion is that the business has increased every year without exception.

Year after year the volume of Lowe Bros. paints sold here has increased until now it comprises one of the most important departments of the store. The line consists of high standard house paint, Mellotone for interior wall decorations, Mellogloss for office buildings, kitchens, and bath rooms (one of the most efficient products ever developed for easy cleaning and washing) and Neptunite varnish for floors and interior work, guaranteed never to turn white, impervious to water and will stand 400 degrees heat. As the direct factory distributors, you get quality paints at the lowest possible prices.

Wooden veneer for interior finish of buildings has been invented that is thin enough to be sold in rolls and applied in the same manner as wall paper.

A combination lock operated by a knob like a safe lock is an English invention for retaining spare tires on automobiles.

Norge Picked After Tests for Apartments

Two Chicago apartments recently installed 1,000 Norge refrigerators as a result of a comparison of five leading makes of electric refrigerators. A test was made by placing five makes of refrigerators in a hot room of 120 degrees. The doors of the boxes were left open until the inside temperature was 92 degrees. The 120-degree room temperature was maintained, the units were started and recording thermometers were used. At the end of the 22-hour test, none of the other refrigerators had frozen solid ice, but Norge ice was solid. The next nearest competitor had temperature of 46 degrees on the bottom shelf at end of seventh hour, while Norge recorded 36 degrees at the end of two and a half hours. The test showed Norge operation at a cost of two kw hours, while nearest competitor was three kw hours. A test that makes Norge outstanding in actual performance.

You are invited to come in and see a demonstration of the Norge at Mautz Bros. hardware store.

When you are down town shopping during these hot days, you are invited to stop in any time and get a refreshing drink of ice water from the watervoir in their Norge refrigerator on demonstration during their "Get Acquainted Sale."

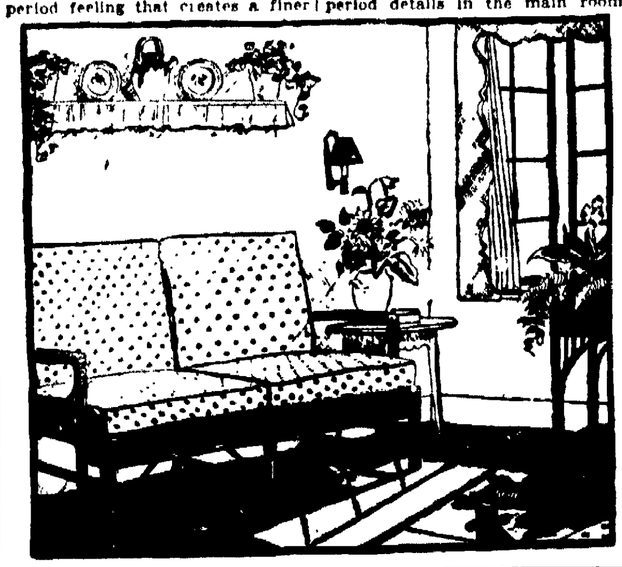
PERIOD STYLES FOR SUNROOMS

BY MARGERY TAYLOR
Interior Decorator Editor, McCall's Magazine.

For today's sunroom the new furniture has an unmistakable period feeling that creates a finer harmony with the rest of the house.

In the past much time and energy were expended working out period details in the main rooms of the house, but there was no precedent to follow in the sunroom.

So, without rule or guidance, a room quite foreign to all decorative principles was evolved. Now the unruly room is, so to speak, being tamed.



Wicker furniture is now becoming really artistic. Pieces with truly Early American lines are available in reed and maple

The upholstery is harmoniously in small calico-patterned chintzes, one suite having a characteristic quaint ruffled edge on the backs of the cushions.

French Provincial reed furniture has frames stained dark beech color and typical peasant fabrics are the most popular upholstery. Typical of this style are the square back and arms curving out, the arm posts going down to the lower stretches.

Those who want to carry the atmosphere of the formal living room into the sunroom will be delighted at the way cane can look Chippendale.

Eighteenth century effects are obtained with hand-blocked Adam linen. Even Italian Renaissance has unmistakably been wrought in rattan.

Chippendale accessories are, naturally, Chinese wall panels and window cornices, while Early American reed furniture may have its maple end tables and colored glass.

At home with French Provincial furniture are beech pieces and pottery inclined toward the quaint.

Although the new sunroom furniture has taken on period dignity, it is really simple. Paint and gaudy colors of a few years ago seem to be going out of fashion.

Nearly all the new reed and rattan pieces are made in natural color, finished only with lacquer. And fabrics, too, are sober.

For the sunroom in the new mode rugse, also, are less riotous, many being positively plain. Check patterns and geometrical borders are well received, and for Colonial and Provincial rooms one may go as far as the small nosegay effects on the new grass rugs.

AID FORMING THRIFT HABITS

Roy Waddell Cites Figures To Show Value of Firms to Community.

Building, savings and loan companies are great factors in the encouragement of thrift in a community. According to Roy Waddell, secretary of The Home Building Savings & Loan Co., communities that have a large number of building, savings and loan company patrons and the ideals back of the existence of these institutions, is a community of thrift in time of prosperity and a self-sustaining community in time of adversity.

The mental attitude of the individual is a tremendous factor in his financial career.

Lend Helpful Hand

These institutions lend to others with a more helpful hand than if they gave outright, because what they lend they encourage the other man to repay, a thing in itself that makes for better manhood.

The man who is a depositor in a savings and loan company feels that he has a part in helping others to build into a life a worth while existence.

In times of stress the home owner and the building and loan patron each has a reserve on which he can safely call to see him through.

No activity in the history of the world has been conducted upon the same broad plane of economical management or has produced such tremendous results in financial strength and happy living.

Proof that people are saving for worth while things lies in the fact that 42.6 per cent of all Ohioans who reach 65 years are worth $5,000 or more, the greater part of which wealth is invested in homes.

In other words, the majority of those who reach old age with any material wealth have at some time invested in that antique security, a home, which long ago passed its 10,000th anniversary in human history.

Savings Table

In an effort to interest more people to accumulate something—to save for things worth while, particularly homes, Ohio loan leaders point to this table showing the amount of property owned in Ohio by persons over 65 years:

9.6% owned no property of any sort.
8.4% owned less than $1,000.
5.1% owned less than $2,000.
5.2% owned less than $3,000.
9.2% owned less than $5,000.
10.7% owned less than $8,000.
6.1% owned less than $10,000.
25.8% owned more than $10,000.

On the other hand building and loan records disclose that more Ohioans are saving now than at any other time in history.

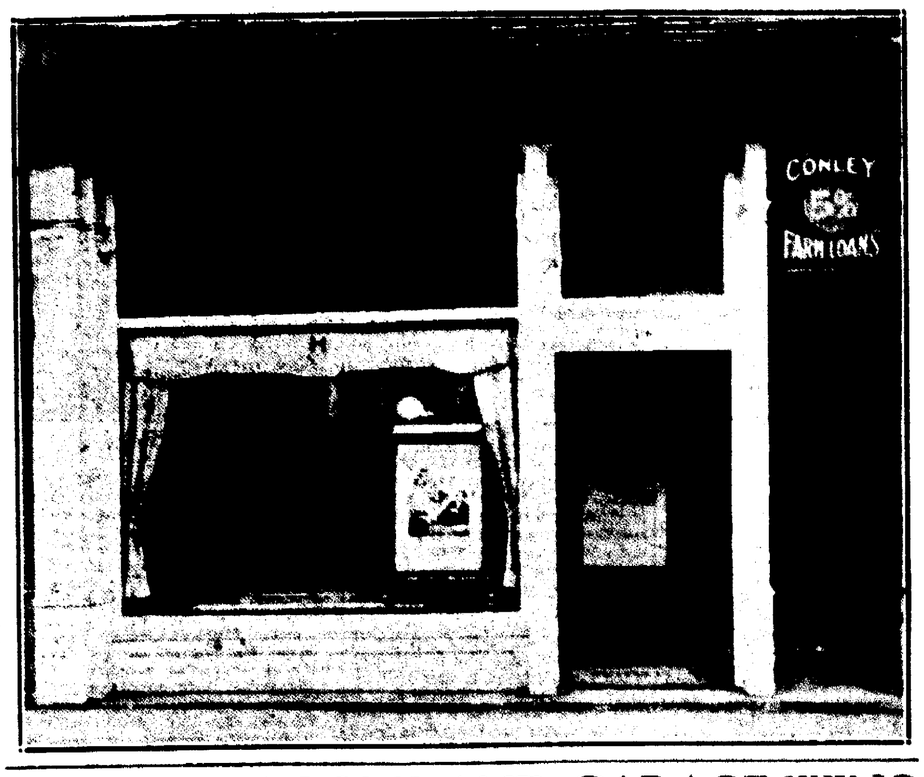
In an effort to show how comparatively easy it is for the average person to collect a sizable fortune, $50 monthly laid away at the average interest rate of 5 per cent will amount to $20,564 in 20 years. Even the family who can save only $2.00 a week, in 20 years will be able to own a modest home.

Willing To Help

All information gleaned by savings and loan companies tends to indicate that a home provides the safest form of investment for the average man or woman and that it forms the principal and almost sole means of wealth for those who reach the age of 65.

Pictured above is the Home Building Savings & Loan Co., one of Marion's oldest building and loan institutions. The officers of this company will be glad to assist you in solving your financial problems. It would pay you to investigate their savings plans, for the "Home" has a plan to suit every income.

HOME LOAN HEADQUARTERS



FOUR BEDROOMS AND GARAGE WING

At first glance one would not think that this appealing stone house has four bedrooms upstairs.

But it has—in addition to a livable first door plan and an exterior design that should prove a delight to the owner.

Far from detracting, the garage wing contributes interest to the house and is definitely a part of it and not something merely tacked on.

Both the front and the rear entrance are placed in this wing. To provide a pool with suitable pots and surroundings planting would be a happy thought assuring a pleasant approach to the home.

Downstairs the large living room with its four windows and a large fireplace claims greatest interest. From it one passes to the dining room, perhaps observing that the book case in the living room becomes a china closet on the dining room side.

An ideal outlook for these two rooms would result by facing them south, overlooking a garden.

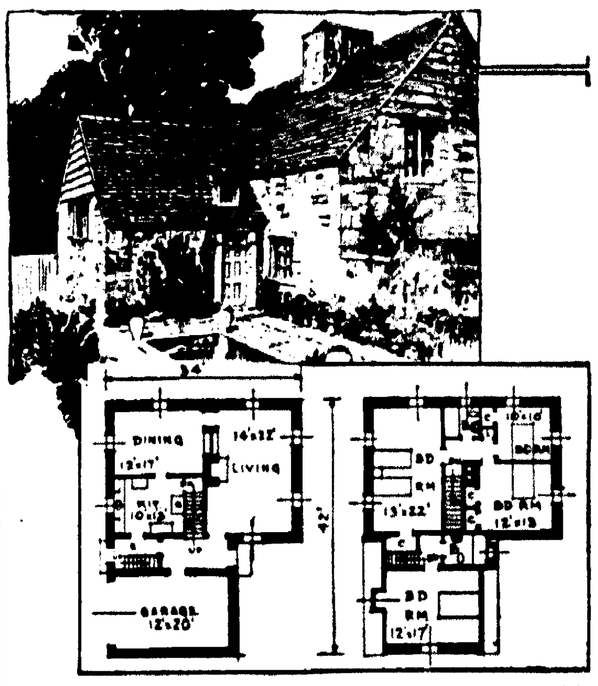
The kitchen is convenient with respect to the hall, from which lead two stairways—one to the main part of the second floor, and the other to the room over the garage.

This is a room with possibilities. Perhaps the children might need it for their play. Or it could be a servant's room or guest room. In any case, it has privacy and its own bath.

There are three bedrooms in the other part of the second floor. Two of these have cross-ventilation, the larger being of very generous proportions with three windows to catch the breezes from two sides. The bath is conveniently located.

If native stone is not available, brick makes a good substitute and one usually less expensive. Likely the cost will run from $10,000 to $12,000.

A lot 75 by 100 feet would be suitable, although a smaller one could be used.



FIREPLACE STILL NEEDED

While fireplace cooking went by the board with the development of the kitchen range and the succeeding gas and electric ranges, the fireplace is still an asset to the home. It is the center of interest around which thousands of attractive living rooms are built. Just as its use has undergone changes so has its construction. The fireplace of decorative concrete is one of the most modern forms. Individuality in design and decoration is one of the chief reasons for its popularity.

Festivals

IT'S open season for icecream festivals and if they all are like the one we attended one night this week our slogan is "more just like it." It was a feast for the gods, home stirred icecream, home grown strawberries and home made cake, if you please. And last, but by no means least, the price. Folks, afflicted with a chronic case of groaning over the good old days will have to concede a point now for believe it or not the cashier only asked us for the half of a thin dime for each item. Of course we're not telling just how many gitneys we and some of the rest of the cash customers being served at the same time, parted with, but we will say this, we "shore" had plenty.

Parasols

AND harking back to the good old days of which the trend of fashions of vividly remind some folks, it's your guess what will be next. Try to imagine just what is lacking when milady steps out with her floor length skirts, her picture hat and her lace mitts. There's just one thing lacking, one of those fluffy-ruffle parasols. And weren't they the gay affairs, all lace and flub-dubs. There used to be a flirtation code which was popular in that era, but that was in the days when an afternoon in the park afforded conversation timber for a week and meeting the evening train furnished fun for the whole town six nights in the week.

WHAT would happen, do you suppose,, if for just one day, everyone would be perfectly honest and frank with everyone else. Or, better yet, speak up without being invited and tell folks just what you do or do not like about them, in other words, come out with the same line you pass out to the friend, beginning with "you know I think she is just as sweet as she can be but did you ever see anything like that last hat she bought," and so on and so on

CHAPTER 26
A Desert Mystery

DRIPPING SPRING is a spot in the Nevada desert. The nearest human habitation—if Jimmie Harrigan's camp in the Biscuit Hills may be called a habitation—is a day and a half to the west and south by a faintly marked trail. Red Butte, a typical desert mining town, lies two days east by trail across Burro Mesa. Red Butte touches civilization by way of a road 80 miles to Red Butte Station, which is on a railroad.

The vast expanse of Burro Mesa slopes imperceptibly toward the west and a slight depression, beginning in the central part of this great plain, deepens into a draw, and becomes at last a canyon which opens out onto the lower desert levels where the mesa ends in a walllike declivity.

Dripping Spring, in the mouth of this canyon, is known only to a few venturesome prospectors and their kind. It would be difficult to imagine a greater contrast to the Ohio village where Pierre Donovan had grown to manhood and it is no wonder that the soda fountain clerk amid such surroundings was bewildered and dismayed.

The end of the day was near and the pack-saddles, bed rolls, and cooking utensils lying about indicated a camp for the night. Pierre, tired and begrimed from a long march on the hot desert trail, was searching among the thinly scattered weeds for something to make a campfire. Often he paused to look wonderingly around.

From that lonely spot the desert stretched away until in the mysterious distance earth and sky became one. The sun was almost touching the higher peaks of a mountain range so far away that it appeared as a gray-blue cloud; but in all the sky there was no cloud. And the land lay as empty and silent as the sky.

The loneliness, the silence, to Harriet Noel's son, were appalling.

Suddenly the silence was broken by a rich Irish voice. "Come away out of that now, Kate! Ye blunderin' she-devil av a burro! Can't I never larn ye to keep yer dirty nose out av the spring? 'Tis five years and more that I've been waterin' ye at this place, and niver a time that ye did not try to spoil the drink fer yer betters."

The voice came again: "Hey, you Jack, look to yer feet whilst I put yer hobbles on. Now git on, the lot of yez."

There was a sound of blows and scurrying hoofs, and then from around a rocky corner came a man of the desert. His age might have been anywhere from 40 to 80. His lean stringy body was as straight as a gun-barrel and he walked with the easy, tireless movement of the old-time prospector. The years he had lived under the fierce desert sun had marked his features with innumerable lines; desert skies had given his blue eyes a serene courage and an unwaveringly fidelity. In one hand he carried four lead ropes, in the other a cloth-covered canteen, dripping wet from the spring. Tossing the ropes on the nearest pack-saddle he took the canteen to Pierre.

"Av all the jack-asses I've ever known in my long career—an' I've known a lot, animal and human—thim four old burros av mine do be the most exasperatin' limit! And that's the truth or my name's not Jimmie Harrigan! Have a drink?"

Pierre smiled. "Thanks, but I filled up at the spring when we first arrived."

"Sure ye did, but have another, anyhow. Too much water will be an experience that ye'll remember wid pleasure when ye're out in that danged old desert yonder."

Pierre, with a laugh raised the canteen to his lips.

"Speakin' av water," the desert man continued, "there do be tracks av strange burros down around the spring. The beasts never come from my place and they did not come from Red Butte or we would have seen their signs these last two days. I'm thinkin' 'tis more than likely thim burros belong to the two men ye're lookin' fer."

"You think Bruce Carey and the man he is with are near here?" cried Pierre eagerly.

"No, lad, tis certain I am that Colorado Bill and his friend Burnes that you think is the man Bruce Carey that ye're so wishful to find, are not in this neighborhood. 'Tis like I told you—I seen thim men wid me own eyes a'headin' toward Mother Mountain. They ain't come back or they'd be here, or at least their tracks would. Now, the only water-hole on Mother Mountain is Blackwater Tanks. Sometimes there's water at the Tanks, and sometimes there is not. These burros bein' here at Drippin' Spring may have come back from Blackwater Tanks because there's little or no water there right now.

"Blackwater Tanks is no more than a hollow in the rocks, and not livin' water like Drippin' Spring here. And that water-hole may be dry, we've had no rain for so long a time."

"But if there is no water the men would come back, too, wouldn't they?"

"They would if—" The Irishman hesitated, then as if to reassure his companion, "it may be av course that there's a little water in the Tanks, and that Colorado Bill has turned his burros loose to save what there is fer himself and yer friends. Bruce, knowing that the beasts would come back here to Drippin' Spring and that he could pick them up agin on his way back to Red Butte after he and yer friend had stayed on Mother Mountain as long as what little water there is in the Tanks lasts. But I don't like it at all."

"Is there anything we can do, Mr. Harrigan?"

"Nothin' more than to go straight ahead as ye planned. But 'tis well that ye have no burros to bother wid tomorrow. You can carry enough water to last ye to Mother Mountain and back here again. But 'tis on me mind that ye'll not get far 'til ye meet yer men on their way back to Drippin' Spring with their tongues hangin' out. 'Tis a terrible bit av desert ye're headin' into, lad, and av I was not dead sure ye could not miss findin' yer friend and Colorado Bill I'd niver let ye start out alone at all. But av ye done as I tell ye ye'll come out av it safe enough. Av ye make any mistakes ye'll niver come out."

"You have been awfully good to me, Mr. Harrigan,' said Pierre. "I never could have found Bruce without you to show me the way. It was lucky that I met you at Red Butte."

"Sure, any lad wid the name av Donovan would have a claim on a Harrigan," returned the Irishman with a chuckle. "I only hope that this stranger wid Colorado Bill is the man, Bruce, that ye're huntin'!"

"The description fits Bruce exactly, and he and Colorado Bill left Red Butte together for Colorado Bill's mine in the Painted Mountains."

"Colorado says he has some sort of a claim in the Painted Mountains. He tells me 'tis only a day's travel beyond my camp in the Biscuit Hills, but I ain't never been there to see fer myself—my trust in Colorado Bill not bein' strong enough to make me walk a day there and another day back, do you see? But Colorado never took yer friend to any claim in the Painted Mountains this trip, because the two av thim went to Mother Mountain like I told ye. They're out fer to hunt that lost Mother Mountain lode.

"They was camped right on this spot. Ye see I have to camp here at Drippin' Spring whin I go to town fer supplies, and whin I come back too, because this is the only water. Everybody else has to camp here fer the same reason. Colorado and this other man was beddin' down fer the night when I arrived.

"We passed the time av day, and Colorado says: 'Ye're bound fer Red Butte, I take it, Jim?'

"'Take it er leave it,' I says, that's where I'm headed fer.'

"Wid that he says, 'I'm taking' Mr. Burnes, here out to see my claim in the Painted Mountains.'

"Good luck to both of yes,' says I. But the next morning' they hung back from startin' so that I was away up the hill to the top av the mesa before they stirred a foot from this spot. 'Twas from the top av the first little ridge that I stopped a minute fer a look back, and there, plain as the nose on yer face, I could see thim kicking up the dust away over yonder headin' straight for Mother Mountain."

WHY ORDER COAL NOW?

Because prices are at the lowest point of the season, and quality is always better when there is a slow movement of coal.

Because the Railroads have applied for an increase of 15% in rates, and there is a possibility of this rate becoming effective in a very short time. It would raise the price of Pocahontas coal 35c per ton; West Virginia Coal 32c, and Ohio Coal 25c per ton.

A Story of Boyhood Adventure

BY JUDD M. LEWIS

TODAY was Saturday. Saturday means a lot to a fella when it isn't vacation. But when it is vacation it only means that the next day is Sunday and my ant will wash my neck and ears.

I let Jubilee down, and a nice wind was blowing across the world and cooling it off when I went out with the milk pail, and the bunch were all there in the barn, except the girls and they were in the house, and Younies said we would go out today and get the wild strawberries Banty made us forget yesterday. Banty pulled up his britches and pulled his stockings down to show us his leg and it is black and blue and green and yellow. I told him that if he wasn't already nicknamed Banty we would call him rainbow. He thought that was a good name, but he said he liked Banty best.

He said his father was laughing last night because I wanted the bucket of green paint. He said there is no telling what a boy will ask for next. He said a boy is like a dog chasing a railroad train; he wouldn't know what to do with it if he got it. Banty said there was a small can of white paint he could tell me I could have if I wanted it, and a brush. So all the time we were looking for wild strawberries I was thinking what to do with it, and I had it all made up so that on the way home we went around past Banty's and I got it. Mr. Wagmore has always been a friend of our'n and gave us a row of the grapes in his yard every year so I thought we would do something to please him, but when we got to his house no one was home.

I thought that was better yet, because we could surprise him.

We swept off the brick terrace that runs across the front of his big house, and then we took turns with the brush and painted the outside row of bricks all the way around it for a nice white border, and it certainly did look slick. Then we went over to Banty's to see if his father wouldn't give us the green paint to fill in the middle with, and he was home and when we told him what we had done he said he would go with us and look at the job and then maybe he would give it to us, so we all started for Wagmore's but when we were going past my house my mother called me, and the bunch thought maybe she was going to divide a loaf of hot bread like she sometimes does so they all went with me. And Banty's father went over to Wagmore's and went in and picked up the empty can and the brush and stood there looking at the job we'd done, when Mr. Wagmore came, and he thought Banty's father had painted it, and he didn't want it painted and called Banty's father an old [illegible] and Banty's father called him some names and they had a fight and [illegible] the bucket and paint and [illegible] and [illegible] and [illegible]

Commercial league leaders fell right and left last night when two previously undefeated teams folded up and a new championship contender installed on the highest run of he standings.

Both the Kappas and Prospect Firemen who played their first four games without a break in their strings of victories are now tied for second place while the Erie Traffic Club and Serv-U-Wel Grocers took over the leadership.

The Erie nine deserved the victory last night. Their hitters were on a spree which will be remembered a long time by the fraternity boys. The game was turned into a rout in the sixth inning and a final score of 11 to 4 was chalked up.

Three errors helped the Erie score four runs in the opening inning. Errors put two men on with one out and two hits and another misplay aided the Erie cause considerably. Six hits and a walk counted six runs in the sixth inning.

Gillis' home run with two men on gave the Kappas three counters in the first inning. The fraternity offense then went to pieces and the boys were held scoreless the rest of the inning with the exception of the fifth when another run was scored.

It took 10 innings for the Serv-U-Wel grocers to upset the Prospect Firemen 2 to 1 in one of the hardest fought battles of last night. The grocers scored in the first inning when Marshall hit the ball for the circuit. Prospect tied up the score in the fourth when M. Gast opened the inning with a three-bagger. He scored on Winnett's single. The game broke up in the tenth when Shields doubled and scored on Jerews single.

The Excavators had no trouble defeating the army lads of Company B 5 to 0 while the K. of P. nine was giving the Wesley Juniors another licking 5 to 2.

Holt Wins Tourney Here; Played First Golf Game 6-Weeks Ago

A Cardington man who took up the game of golf not more than six weeks ago today holds the membership handicap tournament championship of the Mar-O-Del course. He is Ed Holt, a restaurant proprietor in the Morrow county village.

He defeated M. M. Mohr of Marion in the last round of their 36-hole match played last night. Holt turned in a card of 45-52—97 which, combined with the even 100 on the first 18, gave him a total of 197. Last night Mohr turned in a 55-50—105 to bring his total to 208.

This gave the Cardington man an 11-stroke advantage and to make the victory more sweet Mohr spotted him a seven-stroke handicap. This gave Holt a clear lead of 18 strokes.

Mohr did not play the brand of golf he usually is capable of. Coming in last night he got into trouble on the last two holes taking a nine and a 10 mile Holt was getting a pair of fives.

Holt turned in the best score of the tourney finals on the last nine of the match when he scored a 45. His total for the round was three strokes lower than his mark for the first 18.

Neither player was able to break par on any of the holes last night. Holt equalled the prescribed number of strokes on two, three, seven and nine. Mohr was from one to five strokes off on every hole.

The winner received a year's membership in the club and the loser a dozen golf balls.

FIGHTERS POLISH UP PUNCHES; FACE FEW MORE MIT SESSIONS

Followers of Game Watch Stribling's Left and Schmeling's Right.

By The Associated Press

GEAUGA LAKE, O., June 27—The polishing of Bill Stribling's left hand for 15 rounds of jousting against Max Schmeling's right in the Cleveland municipal stadium next Friday night entered the final stages today.

Only twice more is the southern challenger for the heavyweight throne certain to pull on training gloves—tonight and again tomorrow night.

He may spar a bit with his training mates Tuesday night to keep rust from collecting on his punch and judgment of distance, but the heavy work of preparation for the fight will be over Sunday.

The closer the struggle gets, the more complex are the problems of the critics who are striving to judge between the deftness and power of Stribling's left and the might of Schmeling's right, probably the shortest and heftiest punch in the entire heavyweight division. Regardless of the critics' opinions, however, the first wagers on the outcome of the title go have made Stribling and his left hand a 7 to 5 favorite.

* * *

By The Associated Press

CONNEAUT LAKE PARK, Pa., June 27—Max Schmeling must carry the fight to young Stribling if he is successful in the defense of his world's heavyweight championship when they dedicate Cleveland's new municipal stadium with their 15-round title bout next Friday night.

This is a conclusion of the German handlers today. Manager Joe Jacobs, pointed out in particular that Schmeling intends to fight an aggressive, rushing battle, forcing Stribling to the defense.

The battle plans, as conceived from the training drive, indicate Schmeling will attempt to beat Stribling with punches to the body, and thus slow up his speed.

Schmeling, in his five rounds of boxing yesterday, against two sparring partners, steadily moved forward until he got in close and then drive punches to the body. The big German, crouching low and weaving, smashed through the defense of George Panka, Pittsburgh heavyweight, and then drove lefts and rights to the body, forcing Panka to clinch and hold. Schmeling boxed three rounds with Panka before stepping two sessions with Tony Marullo, New Orleans veteran. He attempted to develop speed in footwork and speed in throwing punches against the New Orleans warrior.

West's Sporting Activities Now Includes Running Events.

LOS ANGELES—Horse racing, rather a back number in the west's sport activities in recent years, is booming in the land of the setting sun again.

Where one track—the Agua Caliente, Mex., Jockey club—operated a year ago, three now hold regular meetings, and there is more than idle chatter concerning the possibility of three more.

The Tanforan oval near Del Monte, opened up last fall, made a test case of the California law regarding wagering on races, and won. It now operates two runnings a year.

OSCAR MELILLO

Until this year Oscar (Spinach) Melillo, the Browns' second baseman, was known for his brilliant defensive play. In fact he once held the minor league record for chances handled during a season. But he was weak at the plate.

This year a sudden new ability with the bat has put him up among the league leaders—and his fielding has fallen into a miserable slump.

Oscar committed no less than 17 blunders in the first 40 games of the season, as against only 21 in all 148 games last year. On the same day that his batting mark touched .382 his fielding average read .936.

But the locals will have one hard time bettering their season's record for they will stack up against the strong Sunbury nine, one of the leading contenders for the championship crown.

Manager Conroy is rearranging his lineup after sending his team through several hard practice sessions in preparation for a tough battle.

RYDER CUP MATCHES ENTER FINAL ROUND; U. S. TEAM FAVORED

Invaders Win but One Game in Four Contests Played Yesterday.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., June 27—The British lion was down but far from out today as the international duel between England and America for the prized Ryder cup moved into its final and deciding battle.

Turned back, three matches to one, in the first skirmishes over the rugged trap infested Scioto battle ground, the British faced a dramatic uphill fight but felt confident of turning the tide and giving the squat little trophy emblem of international professional golf supremacy, another trip across the Atlantic. Captain Walter Hagen and his mates were highly optimistic but aware and respectful of their foe's comeback qualities.

Today's final skirmish consisted of eight singles matches in which Captain Hagen and Captain Charles Whitcombe of his majesty's forces carefully laid their battle lines with their prize troops—fighters who proved their ability in yesterday's shelling. This was the lineup:

The Lineup Today

Archie Compston, England, vs. Billy Burke, America.

Fred Robson, England, vs. Gene Sarazen, America.

W. H. Davies, England, vs. Johnny Farrell, America.

Abe Mitchell, England, vs. Wiffy Cox, America.

Charles Whitcombe, England, vs. Walter Hagen, America.

Burt Hodson, England, vs. Densmore Shute, America.

E. Whitcombe, England, vs. Al Espinosa, America.

Arthur Havers, England, vs. Craig Wood, America.

On the sidelines were two players from each team—the veteran George Duncan and the youthful Syd Easterbrook of England, who were defeated in separate two-ball foursomes yesterday, and Leo Diegel and Horton Smith of the American team.

English Probably Doomed

As a result of America's two-point mortgage on the cup, gained yesterday, the British faced the grim task of winning five out of today's eight matches to tie the Americans and capturing six to win.

But if Ryder cup history repeats itself, they were doomed to disappointment. Back in 1927, the English finished the same as yesterday in the old Scotch two-ball game and were crushed the next day, 6½ matches to ½. But in 1929, when they last met and conquered Hagen's team, they lost only one point in the Scotch game and came back to win the up by beating the Americans 5½ to 2½ in the singles.

A tie, however, would be almost as good as a British victory as it would give the Briton's possession of the cup until the teams meet again across the water in 1933.

Coach Fritz Crisler believes he has spotted, in spring practice, a new potential star for next fall's University of Minnesota football team.

MY UBL

My Ubl is the young man's name. He is regarded as the best passer at Minnesota since 1915, when big Pudge Wyman pegged bullets to Bert Baston, the All-America end of one of the late Dr. Henry L. Williams' most famous teams.

In addition to his passing, he is a fast starter and terrific hitter. He is considered the best triple-threat prospect the Gopher campus has seen in any spring practice for a decade.

OHIO STATE GOLFER IN TOURNEY FINALS

Kepler Faces Huge Task in Match with Dunlap, Defending Champion.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, June 27—For the second consecutive year the midwest today had a chance to win its first national intercollegiate golf championship—but its standard-bearer, Bob Kepler of Ohio State, had the huge task of dethroning the defending champion, George T. Dunlap Jr. of Princeton.

Dunlap yesterday crushed his final obstacle before the final round defeating Tommy Aycock of Yale, the 1929 titleholder, 9 and 8, while Kepler gained the championship round by beating his teammate, Johnny Florio, 6 and 5.

The 118-pound Princeton ace was counted as too consistent and experienced for Kepler and the gallery looked for another one-sided victory.

ST. LOUIS BROWNS WIN EIGHT OF LAST NINE BALL CONTESTS

Leaders Not Immune from Electrified Attack of Heretofore Weak Club.

BY HUGH S. FULLERTON JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer

After playing nearly half a season without showing any signs of getting anywhere, the St. Louis Browns seem to have nominated themselves as the giant killers of the American league.

In the past week the Browns have electrified the fans by winning eight out of nine games. They finished a second nine game string of defeats just after they returned from the east, then turned around and won three from the New York Yankees and four out of five from the champion Philadelphia Athletics.

St. Louis took a tight game from Boston in the series opener yesterday. Off to a two-run lead in the first inning, they were tied in the seventh when Jack Rothrock hit a homer, but came back in the same inning to win their fifth straight game, 3 to 2.

In the only other American league game yesterday, Chicago beat Washington, 4 to 3. Pat Caraway broke the White Sox five-game losing streak by holding the Senators to five hits.

A pair of upsets provided the feature of the National league's day. The Brooklyn Robins handed the league leading St. Louis Cardinals a sound trouncing, 16 to 5, while the Boston Braves made it two straight over Chicago by a 7 to 3 count.

The Robins started off with eight runs in the first inning against Burleigh Grimes and never stopped hitting.

The New York Giants regained the game they lost to St. Louis the day before by beating the Cincinnati Reds 2 to 0.

STRAWBERRIES MAKE LAST BOW TO MARKET

Rains Help Local Crop; Northern Patches Now Supply Demand.

This week saw the waning of the strawberry season, although the warm rains of the last few days have revived the crop to some extent. The supply from the local growers was small, and berries shipped in from northern Ohio and Michigan supplied the bulk of the late demand.

Other fruit and vegetable conditions showed but little change during the week. The ideal growing weather has produced large crops of vegetables and the dealers experienced no trouble in obtaining ample supplies of all kinds.

New peas which earlier in the week were selling at two pounds for 25 cents were reduced to three pounds for 25 cents as the supply became more plentiful the latter part of the week. Green and yellow wax beans held at two pounds for 25 cents the greater part of the week.

Watermelons which were selling at from 60 to 90 cents early in the week, became cheaper as the week advanced and today were selling at from 60 to 70 cents. Shipped in blackberries continued to supply the demand all week, the quality was good and the price held at 20 cents all week.

The Stars Say—

For Sunday, June 28

SUNDAY'S horoscope is a very interesting one indicating an abrupt change or upheaval of far-reaching importance on the life. It is probable that this may have to do with the social, romantic or family life, although some aspects of work or employment are involved.

Those whose birthday it is are on the eve of an eventful and memorable year which may have decided bearing on the whole future career. A precipitate change is denoted, possibly having a radical reaction on the personal life through the affectional, domestic or social contacts. Practical issues may also be involved and advantageously, although the finances may not be satisfactory.

A child born on this day may be ingenious, original, independent, adventurous, also mystical and inclined to singular or unconventional pursuits.

• • •

For Monday, June 29

MONDAY'S astrological forecast is an intriguing one, with the irregular, erractic, unfamiliar and subtle uppermost in the affairs of the day. These are not to be interpreted as baneful, although Luna is in trine aspect with Neptune, the mysterious, chaotic and intriguing. New ventures in connection with secret bodies or through mergers, rings or secret understandings are in order. Also all pertaining to writings, publishings and publicity should thrive.

Those whose birthday it is are on the eve of an intriguing and perplexing year, in which the furtive, secretive and subtle hold sway. All transactions with secreta orders, combines, rings or diplomatic circles should flourish. And writings publishings, promotion are well aspected, but greater success is foreseen for strategic rather than direct methods.

A child born on this day should be versatile, clever and talented.

STOCKS CLOSE 7-DAY UPTURN

Gains of One to Four Points Mark Brief Session at Week-End.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, June 27—Share prices pushed upward again in today's stock market, making a seventh upturn of a magnitude rarely experienced in financial history.

Stocks gained 1 to 4 points or more in the two-hour week-end session, despite a fair volume of weekend profit-taking, and a momentary downturn at the opening. Closing prices were close to the top, although there was a little recession in the final dealings.

The vigorous upsweep of prices, starting a week ago today, has not been paralleled since the rebound after the completion of the selling panic in October and November of 1929.

Boerse Shows Strength

Continued strength of the Berlin bourse was regarded as highly encouraging. The Paris and London markets are not open on Saturday.

U. S. Steel was a market leader, gaining 1¼ then pushing up to a new high for the recovery at 104¾, to closed at 104⅜, up 2⅛.

Advances of about 2 to 4 points were recorded by Allied Chemical, American Telephone, Bethlehem Steel, Dupont, Eastman, Foster Wheeler, Johns Manville, U. S. Industrial Alcohol, McKeesport, Missouri Pacific preferred and Pere Marquette. Isolated gains of about 5 points were recorded by Columbian Carbon and Crucible Steel.

High Sales Total

Sales approximated 1,900,000 shares. Trading was most active when prices were on the upturn.

Business news at the end of the week was scant and largely unimportant, leaving the market still in the grip of bullishness inspired by the war debt plan.

Although little change is expected in the steel industry at this time, operations in the Youngstown area, according to week-end estimates, will be maintained at the current level during the next week.

GRAIN MARKET TREND VARIES

Wheat Moves Downward and Corn Upward in Early Trading Today.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, June 27 — Wheat tended downward and corn up in the early dealings today. Refusal of the federal farm board to change its wheat sales policy acted as more than a counterbalance for bullish crop reports from Canada.

Corn responded to continued high temperatures and to absence of rain. Opening 1-2 cent off to 1-4 up, wheat afterward sagged all around. Corn started unchanged 1 cent higher and subsequently held near to the initial limits.

Notwithstanding that an authoritative comprehensive summary of conditions in Canada showed the wheat crop situation to be worse even than most traders had expected the market effect was almost completely nullified by Washington advices that 200,000,000 bushels of government financed old crop wheat holdings were to remain without any definite pledge as to the time or price at which sales would be made.

Many traders took the position that such an enormous stock of old wheat in this position constituted a market menace, and that free play of price making factors in connection with the new 1931 crop was prevented. It was further asserted that wheat consumers both foreign and domestic were left with but little incentive to stock up, and instead with added motive for only hand to mouth buying.

Downturns of wheat prices led at times to setbacks in corn, but the latter grain showed prompt rallying power, and in turn exercised a steadying influence on wheat. Fuller details of Canadian crop losses were also given careful attention, especially statements that wheat in two-thirds of Saskatchewan was 30 to 90 per cent gone, and that the crop outlook in all the Canadian wheat provinces was the worst known in 44 years. Corn reached the highest price today since April 25, and oats also showed firmness.

Provisions tended upward with corn.

Will Praises President Hoover for Tossing Politics Aside and Really Saying Something at Dedication

BY WILL ROGERS

WELL all I know is just what I read in the papers. Awful lot in the papers last week or so about Mr. Hoover and Mr. Coolidge joint appearance at the Harding Memorial. Mr. Hoover put over the best speech. He come right out and said something, told how Mr. Harding had been imposed upon by his own friends, which of course was the absolute truth.

But Mr. Coolidge, you wouldn't get him coming out declaring anything as definite as that. Course Calvin made a good old straightaway, just what you would expect a Politician to say of any of his own Party, touched on Politics of course, and told what the Republican Party had accomplished under Mr. Harding. Even in death they got to give the Grand Old Party a Boost.

But Mr. Hoover really touched on his humaness, and then when he brought out so strong about how his friends had imposed why that was a fine and rather a brave thing for a Politician to do. Course its exactly what a Man in real life would do. But when you are in Politics and depending on somebody to keep you in, why you really aint able to act like real life. It must have been a mighty nice affair.

Marion is a pretty little City. They say the Aeroplanes was flying over head so much that you couldent hear the speeches, and it annoyed Mr. Hoover and Mr. Coolidge very much. What is it that makes a Guy that can fly wait till a bunch of people gather some place and then start in showing them he can fly? They look like they just wait till a crowd gather to rehersa. Its generally some advertising scheme. Well if they can read the add, I would think that its ill effects on the crowd would more than offset the good. If they were advertising "Three Strikes you are out Cigarettes" over a gathering, I believe people would go right out of there and ask for "Foul Tip Cigarettes" purposelly, even if they dident smoke, just to get even with the add.

Opening of Campaign

Of course what this whole trip of Mr. Hoover's was, was the opening Chorus of the 1932 Follies. Politicians will use any means to get their cause launched. A Funeral, or a Commeration, or a Christening, any occasion that looks important, why they will decide to launch along with the Chaplins benedictions "some of the promises of what the future holds in store for you if you are just wise enough to retain the incumbrent."

Then they dug up another monument, or repainted an old one or something over in Illionis. This one was to Abraham Lincoln, another Republican. Guess Mr. Hoover just said, "Well lets do all this monument Circuit at once. Get em all dedicated on one trip."

By the way I was supposed to dedicate a Monument one time. It was down home in Oklahoma, in fact I think it was on the Capitol Grounds at Oklahoma City. It was a kind of a cowboy affair that some Lady had built and asked in the deed to it, to the State that I be the one to present it to Statue Lovers of my own Commonwealth. Well I was all excited and trying to learn a speech that would fit a good Statue. You see I was handicapped.

Weird Aided Will

I had no Politics to put over at the occasion, I wasent going to run for a thing, so that naturally dident leave me much leeway in the way of a speech. I had to confine myself almost practically to Art, and Statue and Oklahoma. None of the three which have anything in common with each other. Well I was digging and studying and getting ready to fly back and do the honors, (secretly hoping that they would have a Brabecue in connection with it, so I could do something natural) and Lo and behold what happens?

Well there was a big Tarpoleon spread over it, and it had been there over it since it had been there, just waiting for me unveilin. Well one of those Oklahoma Cyclones come along. (Chamber of Commerce of Oklahoma kicks on that last statement kindly send stamped envelope). Well this wind hit the Statue and the old "Tarp" would hold, she was strapped on with a "Squaw Hitch" instead of a "Diamond" and away she blew.

The tarp landed in Alfalfa Bill Murrays house down south (before he was Governor) and it come in mighty handy as bed clothes, for Bill sleeping mighty close to the boards about then So the wind was really a public benefaction, and they wired me immediately on receipt of the cyclone there. "Don't come. Another Big Wind has beat you to the unveiling, and did it one-tenth of the time it would have taken you to blow it off." Well I don't know when I ever felt so non-plussed.

Livestock Thefts in County at Lowest Ebb in Many Years

Marion county apparently has developed an atmosphere unhealthy for livestock and poultry thieves within the last few months. Not in half a dozen years has there been a three-month period so devoid of stock and poultry thefts as there has been since late last March.

In 1927 it will be remembered that 11 men were sent to the penitentiary when officials broke up a huge, well-organized stock stealing ring in this county. Activities of this ring included thefts of cattle, sheep, pigs and poultry. These would be stolen in large lots and sold in markets in southern Ohio.

Scarcely a month went by in recent years but what some theft was reported to county authorities. This year, with the exception of a number of minor thefts early in the year has been an exceptionally poor one for the thieves, for little stock has been carried away from Marion county farms.

Whether officials have made things "too hot" for the thieves, or whether a slump has struck the outlets for the stolen stock, making stealing unprofitable, is known only to the thieves themselves. Nevertheless livestock thefts are at their lowest ebb in years.

RULES MARRIAGE LEGAL

LOS ANGELES—A Filipino may marry a Mexican of Indian descent under California rules, Superior Judge Walter Guerin has ruled. His decision was given in the case of Gavina C. Vieco, a Filipino, who had been refused a license to marry Ruth M. Sales, a native of Sonora, Mexico. Judge Guerin held that the law forbidding marriage of Mongolians and Caucasians did not apply. Miss Sales had testified that her ancestors were Indians.

Marion Hears Scout's Story of Byrd Trip to South Pole

Paul A. Siple Tells of Life in Little America

Boys in Harding Area Troops Get Awards from Erie, Pa., Scout at Court of Honor in Epworth M. E. Church; Speaks at Luncheon.

The final appearance in Marion on the present trip of Paul A. Siple, the Sea Scout of Erie, Pa., who was chosen by Admiral Byrd from scouts of the entire nation to be one of the members of his Antarctic expedition, was made last night at the Epworth M. E. church when he was guest speaker of the Harding Area council of the Boy Scouts of America. The meeting, which included a court of honor, had been scheduled to take place at Camp John A Owens, but was held at the church because of unfavorable weather Siple presented an account of his experiences with the expedition, dealing with the life led by the members of the party, some of their activities, and many interest anecdotes.

Court of Honor

The court of honor was opened by Frank D. Glosser, president of the Harding area, who introduced Wilbur H. Symes, Scout commissioner, the latter turning the meeting over to Roy Waddell, chairman of the court of honor, after a brief talk. A group of twelve scouts then presented an explanation of the scout laws.

The work of the court of honor consisted of the presentation of various awards to scouts who had earned them during the last month. Siple made the awards. Scouts from Marion winning awards included Clark Wiedeman, James Mautz, Robert Cass and Robert Reid, Paul Young, rank of first class scout. Chester Evans and Frank Gegenheimer, Star Scout rank, Howard Stofer, Life Scout and Richard Kissel, second class. Robert Bush received the Scout palm from Siple yesterday afternoon. Scoutmaster Kellogg also received the palm last night.

Bucyrus Scouts

Scouts representing Bucyrus also obtained their awards last night. They were Robert Black, James Taylor, Edward Koch, Jack Hagaman, Donald Hagaman, Ivor Miller and Robert Koch, merit badges, James Taylor, first class rank, and E. Morrison, the rank of second class. After the various honors had been distributed, Siple dismissed them with the scout salute Waddel then spoke briefly to the scouts assembled, urging them to follow the example of the honor scouts, and turned the meeting over to Commissioner Symes, who introduced the speaker of the evening, Paul Siple.

Tells Experiences

In his talk, Siple drew a picture of conditions in the Antarctic and related some of the outstanding incidents from his part in the undertaking. Siple held various posts during the stay at Little America. Upon arrival, he was a sailor on the "City of New York," the Byrd ship. Then Admiral Byrd turned a dog team over to him. After spending some time in hauling supplies with the team, he was made taxidermist for the expedition, in which position he made a close study of the different types of animal life in the Antarctic Shortly after this appointment, he drove Admiral Byrd, in his dog sledge. During the journey, the dogs overturned Siple's sledge, throwing his passenger out, which was amusing to Byrd. Siple spoke frequently of the fairness and consideration which Admiral Byrd exhibited during the trying stay in Little America. One thing that seemed to impress Siple was that a group of men as large as this one, numbering 41, could be in such close quarters for 14 months and maintain the evenness of temperament that was shown by this expedition

Many Tour

Siple is making a tour of the 12 scout regions under the auspices of the national headquarters of the Boy Scouts of America. His first appearance was at Wilkesbarre, Pa., then Youngstown, Akron, Warren, Columbus, Dayton and Marion. He will proceed from here to Steubenville. From Steubenville Siple goes to Dallas, Tex., and will spend a week in that vicinity. The tour is to last until Sept. 1, when Siple will resume his studes at Allegheny colloege at Meadville, Pa., where he will be a senior. He is majoring in biology.

LUNCHEON CLUB SPEAKER

Rotarians and Kiwanians Hear Scout at Noon Meeting.

Stories of cold so intense that the breath froze as it was being exhaled and the kerosene froze in the lamps, were told by Eagle Scout Paul Siple yesterday in recounting, at a joint luncheon of the Rotary and Kiwanis clubs, his experiences as a member of the Admiral Byrd expedition to the South Pole a year ago.

Siple's appearance here was arranged by Scout Executive Arthur Brooks and guests at the luncheon included, in addition to the members of the two civic clubs members of the Scout executive committee and a number of scouts.

Breath Freezes

"You hear much talk of the extreme cold at the South Pole," Siple said in recounting his experiences, "and it is largely true It is so true that one can hear one's breath freeze when the temperature drops to 72 degrees below zero and the coal oil freezes in the lamps and the lights go out."

This intense cold, however, is only through the winter months, the speaker explained. The sun in the summer frequently becoming as hot as 120 degrees above zero. "It is possible to become sunburned under the chin in the summer time, from the reflection of the sun on the snow," Siple declared Members of the expedition would run about scantily dressed for several hours in the sun. But if a cloud passes before the sun, the temperature immediately drops to the freezing point, the heat coming directly from the sun's rays

The long, bitter cold, four months of night, was described by Siple as most trying on the dispositions of the men. For during this long period of darkness the men were not ordinarily permitted to leave their shacks, the only exceptions being when the moon was bright and the weather clear. Should the sky become cloudy or blizzard develop while the men were absent, their chances of ever finding the camp, would be very small, he said. When the moon is at its brightest, Siple said, colors can be distinguished for a distance of 100 yards and objects can be distinguished for nearly a mile

See Little Light

During this period the dogs were kept in a tunnel built in the snow and roofed over, and the only light they saw during the four months was the light from the lanterns carried by the men as they bring their food Frozen seal meat is fed the dogs, and frequently it is frozen so hard that it requires from one meal time to the next for the dogs to tear it apart.

More than 500 seals were killed by the expedition party during their stay in the antartic, Siple said. They were killed to furnish fuel as well as meat, the heavy layer of blubber lying next to the skin was burned for fuel.

A low place on a mass of ice 400 feet long by 700 feet wide and 150 feet thick was selected for the site of "Little America" as the camp was known, Siple said. The buildings were completed just before the setting in of winter and with the coming of snow the buildings were completely covered, only the smoke stacks and radio staffs extending above the snow line, he said

Wheat Yield Expected To Reach 40 Bushels to Acre

Farmers in Marion County Optimistic over Crop as Harvest Starts; Prospects for Oats Also Bright; Hay Is Exceptionally Heavy.

Whether Marion county farmers will sell their wheat when it is threshed next month or whether they will follow the reported example of farmers in other counties, and hold it for higher prices or use it for feed, will depend upon one thing—the extent of their need of ready money, grain buyers say.

The farmer who can afford to hold his wheat, will undoubtedly receive a higher price, it is predicted, but how many farmers will feel that they are financially able to do this is uncertain

Many Will Sell

That most of the farmers will sell, is the belief of the grain buyers They point out as the reason for this belief the unusual large crop and the shortage of ready money. Even though the price at the opening of the season should not exceed 50 cents, the farmer will make more than he did last year, because of the heavy yield, they say

Wheat has not been better in recent years than it is at the present time and some of the heavy wheat growers are predicting 40 bushels to the acre. Last year, the yield was between 17 and 20 bushels to the acre.

In addition to the heavy yield, wheat will be threshed a week earlier than last year. Farmers are now cutting their wheat and it is expected threshing will start about July 5. The first wheat last year was brought to the city on July 18

Makes Good Feed

The farmers have learned, one grain buyer said today, that wheat combined with other grains, provided an excellent feed and undoubtedly much of it will be used for this purpose, although the amount will be small compared to the yield.

Prospects for an unusual large oat crop are also good, farmers say.

The hay crop has also been added to the list of unusually heavy crops. Not for a number of years has the hay crop been as heavy as it is this year, one farmer said today

Although too early to predict the extent of the corn crop, farmers are optimistic over the outlook. The hot sun and rain of the past week has done much to help the corn and farmers are satisfied that it will be "knee high by the Fourth of July" the heighth which is generally regarded as necessary for the crop to mature before frost.
